JAPAN PROTESTS TO REDS AGAIN

City 'Opens Up' On Spending As Crusade Begins

Actual Incidents of Buying to Help Along 'Sales Mean Jobs' Campaign Reported Before 'Kick-Off' Rally; Spirit of Drive Predominant, Stores Busy.

Mansfield buckled on its armor and began its "Sales Mean Jobs" crusade this morning with an open pocketbook on its shield.

First reports from various stores included a number of actual incidents of people "opening up" and buying needed merchandise in order to "help this crusade-thing along."

But before the first lance was tilted last night at the public rally in Central park, some interesting results were reported to crusade officials.

A Main street merchant bought a new vacuum sweeper for the store instead of having the old one repaired, because he believes that if everyone will buy the things they need, the "Sales Mean Jobs" campaign in Mansfield will mean an actual uptrend in all businesses. . . . A woman in a ready-to-wear department of a department store said: "I was going to get along with one new dress because we don't like to spend any more than we have to, but I need two and I'm going to buy two—just to help."

At the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, an employe who is in no way connected with the sales department, decided to do his bit by setting a quota of three refrigerator sales for himself. Today he had already sold one. Last night while the public rally was in progress, one man in the crowd caught the spirit of the crusade and called over to the radio man who was to go to his home today to repair an old radio, and said: "Don't bother to come out—I'm going to buy a new radio tomorrow."

Revealed In Bargain Days.

This spirit was predominant today as Mansfield's semi-annual Community Bargain Days opened. In front of many stores crowds were waiting before the opening hour this morning. They were frankly looking for bargains but there was talk of the "Sales Mean Jobs" crusade on every hand.

While Community Bargain Days are a regular summer merchandising event, they were timed this year to serve as an opener to the crusade. They will continue through Thursday.

A large crowd gathered in Cen-

IT'S WARM, BUT SO IS NATION

Sweltering Heat Felt From Coast to Coast; Showers, Cooler Due Tomorrow.

The Mansfield area sweltered with most of the nation today in a heat wave which produced readings of 90 degrees or more in 15 major cities from California to New York.

The reading in Mansfield at noon today was 88 degrees, and unless thundershowers drop the mercury this afternoon, the temperature was expected to equal or exceed the previous record of 92 for the season, set on July 8.

Local thundershowers and cooler weather were predicted for Thursday in northern Ohio and scattered sections of the middle west

Although the mercury climbed only to 87 degrees yesterday, the excessive humidity added to the discomfort of perspiring Mansfielders. The lowest reading last night was 68, making the night one of the warmest of the summer.

The heat wave claimed 10 lives at Phoenix, Ariz., where the reading yesterday was 111 degrees.

It was 98 at Kansas City yesterday, while Minneapolis and Denver had 96-degree readings, and Los Angeles reported 94. Miami, Fla., was comparatively cool, with a top reading of 84 degrees, and at Yellowstone park this morning the mercury stood at 34 degrees, two above freezing.

WOMAN VICTIM WAS POURING OIL INTO STOVE

Kerosene-Soaked Dress Set on Fire as She Leans Over Burner.

PREPARING FOR SUPPER

Mifflin Township Resident Succumbs 8 Hours Later; Was Alone at Time.

Burns suffered when her oil-soaked clothing became ignited as she was pouring kerosene into a burner of a coal oil stove caused the death early today of Mrs. Dora Lewis, 55, of Mifflin township.

Mrs. Lewis died at 1 a. m. at General hospital, eight and a half hours after the accident.

Tells of Accident.

She was alone at the time and preparing for supper when she spilled kerosene on her dress while filling an oil burner, she told her husband, Samuel, at the hospital last night.

The heat from the other burner ignited her clothing. In flames she ran from the house into the back yard. Cloyd and S. D. Swan, neighbors, came to her assistance. They wrapped her in a wet blanket to smother the fire and took her to the hopital.

Hospital attaches said her entire body had been burned.

Dwyer said he brought the doctor to the Carroll home after Carroll had accused Dwyer of getting her "in trouble."

YOUTH HURT IN INDIANA, DIES

Mansfielder Fatally Injured in Auto-Truck Collision; Companion in Hospital.

Robert Poth, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Poth, 104 South Glenn avenue, died Tuesday in St. Mary's hospital, LaPorte, Ind., of injuries suffered last Saturday afternoon in a truck-auto collision near LaPorte in which his companion, Paul Isch, 21, also of Mansfield, was critically injured.

Poth suffered a fractured skull, and Isch, confined to the LaPorte hospital, suffered severe face and body injuries. His condition was reported as critical.

The accident occurred about 3 p. m. Saturday six miles from LaPorte, five hours after the youths left Mansfield for the Indiana city where they were to meet Poth's grandfather, Henry Poth, sr., who had been visiting there with his son, Ray Poth, and drive him back to Mansfield.

Authorities said the machine driven by Poth struck a bakery truck which failed to stop at a side road.

Poth was born June 1, 1916, in Mansfield. He was employed by his father as a carpenter. He graduated from Mansfield high school in 1934, and was a member of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church.

Surviving besides his parents are a sister, Dorothy and two brothers, Albert, jr., and Charles; his grandfather, Henry Poth, sr., and his grandmother, Mrs. Jane Anderson.

The body was taken to Wappner's funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday with Rev. Paul H. Saleste, pastor of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church, and Rev. Henry Ford, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Seeks More Data On 'Bargain' In Phosphate Land

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(U.P.)—Dr. Harry Curtis, chief chemical engineer for the Tennessee Valley authority, who said he thought TVA got a bargain when it bought phosphate lands at nearly 500 per cent profit to the seller, will be called back today or tomorrow for further questioning in a congressional investigation of the New Deal agency.

Curtis defended the purchase of phosphate lands from the International Agriculture corporation for $678,000.

He added that if another tract were found like it "I would recommend its purchase at an even higher price if necessary." The Internatinoal corporation had paid $148,000 for the land it sold the TVA.

PUT ON FILE

$1,000,000 City Housing Plan Submitted to State.

Another step towards a $1,000,000 low cost housing program for Mansfield was taken by the temporary committee when it filed application with the state housing board for a slum clearance project here.

George C. Kyle, chairman of the five-man committee, said the application was filed with the board today and that action was expected to be taken when the state housing board meets Aug. 11.

The application seeks to clear property of fire hazards, sanitation problems and juvenile delinquency in the district between Fifth street and the Erie railroad, and Main and North Adams streets, Kyle said. The program also includes a section in the vicinity of Lilly street.

Buildings in that section would be razed and new low cost units constructed. The program would be financed on an amortization plan backed by federal funds.

ACCUSES FATHER OF SWEETHEART

Youth Lays Slaying for Which He Was Convicted to Deputy; Demonstrates Murder.

(By United Press)

SOUTH PARIS, Me.—Paul (Buddy) Dwyer today named former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll as the "real slayer" of Dr. James G. Littlefield—the murder for which young Dwyer is serving a life sentence.

Carroll betrayed no emotion as Dwyer, testifying in a low voice, described how the defendant allegedly kicked, bludgeoned and finally garroted the elderly country doctor.

At times Dwyer rose from his chair in the witness box to demonstrate how blows were struck.

Dwyer testified that he took Dr. Littlefield to the Dwyer home the night of last Oct. 13 to examine Carroll's daughter, Barbara, 17, after the deputy sheriff accused Dwyer of getting her "in trouble."

The youth said he had told the doctor that Barbara had told him that her father once violated her and, when Carroll entered the house afterward alone, Dr. Littlefield threatened to expose him and send him to state prison.

Dr. Littlefield went upstairs preparatory to examining Miss Carroll, Dwyer said, and he was followed by Carroll.

Immediately thereafter, Dwyer

Honors Split In 4 Primary Voting Tests

New Deal and Opposition Win and Lose, Returns From Polls Show.

Primaries In Four States at Glance

MISSOURI — Sen. Bennett Clark, frequent Roosevelt critic, wins Democratic renomination by landslide; Former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield chosen Republican nominee.

KANSAS—Sen. George McGill, Roosevelt follower, easily wins Democratic renomination; former Gov. Clyde M. Reed captures Republican nomination; Rev. Gerald Winrod, called pro-Nazi by opponents, runs third; Gov. Walter Huxman, Democrat, renominated; will be opposed by State Sen. Payne Ratner, Republican.

VIRGINIA — Two Roosevelt supporters lose house races; Rep. Howard Smith defeats William E. Dodd, jr., 3-to-1; former Rep. Colgate Darden unseats Rep. Norman Hamilton.

WEST VIRGINIA—Representatives Ramsay, Edmiston and Johnson, who have backed president, win Democratic renomination.

(By Associated Press)

Roosevelt backers and anti-administration candidates divided the Democratic honors today in four primary elections.

Sen. Bennett Clark of Missouri, foe of the court bill and other White House measures, won a landslide renomination. So did Sen. George McGill of Kansas, loyal follower of the president.

Their victories were not unexpected, however, for both had the active backing of their state party organizations. President Roosevelt had taken no part in either race.

The same division extended to nominations for house seats in two other states. Three West Virginia representatives who have supported the president defeated their opponents, but in Virginia two avowed New Dealers lost out.

Wins by 3 to 1.

BAN ON JEWS

Mussolini Closes Schools to Them; Hikes Army Power.

ROME—(AP)—The government announced today all foreign Jews would be barred from Italian schools beginning with the fall term.

At the same time it announced a new program to increase the efficiency of the nation's armed forces.

A communique said:

"At recent meetings held by Il Duce with the minister of finance and the chief of general staff of war and air a further program to increase the efficiency of our armed forces was concluded."

It gave no other details.

The ban on Jewish students presumably does not apply to the 47,000 Jews who are Italian citizens.

ACTS TO END MANCHOUKUAN BORDER CRISIS

Dispatches Second Note in 24 Hours to Moscow; Troops Still Fighting.

LARGE FORCES ENGAGED

Fears Expressed That Conflict on Frontier May Develop Into Major War.

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO — The Japanese government directed its second protest in 24 hours to Soviet Russia today, in an effort to end, by diplomacy, the bitter fighting along the Russian Siberia-Japanese Manchoukuo frontier.

The fighting still was in progress early today between large forces of well-equipped troops, with airplanes and tanks, and it was felt in authoritative circles that the exchange of gun fire marked the first round of the Far East's second unofficial war.

A later communique said the battle ended at 10 a. m. and that the Russian troops had retreated some 1,500 yards from Japanese positions.

Hopes to Localize Trouble.

A foreign office spokesman said Japan hoped to localize the trouble and settle it by the diplomatic steps, but the presence of large forces in the frontier area indicated the battle which began Sunday might be merely a prelude to major operations.

Those who held that a second undeclared war in the Orient had begun argued that Russia believed Japan was near financial exhaustion and a "now or never moment" had arrived to fight a preventive war to forestall attack by Japan in the future.

Secondly, they contended, Russia was fearful that China would collaspe should the Japanese capture Hankow and sever the Canton-Hankow railway, which is a Chinese munitions artery.

Troop Delay Move?

Some Japanese here believed the border trouble was merely a Russion effort to delay movement of troops to aid the Japanese offensive in China against Hankow, the provisional capital of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's govern-

Blind Girl Sends Appeals To King To Let Dog Land

LONDON—(INS)—Hazel Hurst, 22-year-old blind girl of Oneonta, N. Y., appealed to King George VI today to permit her to land in England with her "seeing eye" dog, Babe.

Amid a wave of sympathy aroused among the English, James A. Wallace of London wrote Miss Hurst offering to undergo an operation to give her his right and only eye. She declined. Miss Hurst also turned down an offer of an English guiding dog, saying she "could not be parted from Babe."

Remaining aboard the liner American Merchant because she could not leave the ship without her canine guide, Miss Hurst sent this message by telegraph to Buckingham palace:

"I am making my last plea to Your Majesty. Permit me and my 'seeing eye" dog to enter your country. My dog is my eyes. I know you can help me."

She sought a reversal of the agricultural ministry's ruling that she can bring the dog ashore only if it is immediately quarantined for six months to establish its good health.

Weather Clear, Track Fast — Crowd Gathers To See Derby

Today is Derby Day in Mansfield, which in the minds of the city's boyhood ranks next to Christmas and the Fourth of July.

A broiling sun, a fast track and what loomed as a record crowd provided a perfect setting for the second annual News-Journal coaster-car race.

At 2:30 p. m., the first heat of the 1938 race was to be shoved off the ramp atop Sturges hill in the elimination to determine the city champion and representative to the All-American Finals to be held in Akron later this month.

Today's starting field included 78 home-made cars on whose wheels rest the championship hopes and dreams of as many drivers, ranging from 9 to 15 years in age.

Director Donald D. Cram and his army of officials predicted a faster race than last year when Lester Griebling piloted "Greased Lightning" to the championship.

Upwards of more than 10,000, last year's estimated attendance, were expected to throng the 950-foot Derby course today to witness the event.

While to the winner will go the major spoils, the place and show cars will also figure heavily in the distribution of awards to be made at the Madison theater at 9 p. m. with Mayor Claude M. Hunter making the presentations.

2,000 Youngsters Stage Own Parade Friday For Bond Issue

More than two thousand youngsters from Mansfield's playgrounds are combining work with play this week as they prepare to stage their own demonstration in favor of the proposed school bond issue which will be voted on next Tuesday. They will parade over downtown streets at 4 p. m. Friday.

Handicraft classes at the playgrounds, under the direction of Miss Margaret Twitchell, are making the posters and banners that will be carried in the parade, and many a small pate is being scratched as its owner demands: "How do you spell sanitation and economy?"

In red and black letters the youngsters are painting their banners with such slogans as "We can't vote—but you can—Vote for the bond issue" . . . "Vote For Our Safety" . . . "Let's Build Schools Instead of Prisons" . . . "It will cost only 43 cents a thousand" . . .

Liberty park playground will feature a horse and buggy—symbolical of the area in which the old school buildings were constructed; West Fifth playground has built a big rainbow, with the two new junior high school buildings at either end; Carpenter school is planning its parade unit in red, white and blue. Other playgrounds that will work out special stunts are Hedges, Prospect, Brinkerhoff, South Park, North Park, Bushnell

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life.

WHY FALSE TEETH WEARERS HAVE BAD BREATH

Millions Suffer Without Knowing!

You can't notice any odor from your plate or bridge—but others can! Dentists call this odor "denture breath" and it's serious. It comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum is almost invisible—but it can make your breath so bad that friends shudder. It can breed decay-bacteria that infect your other teeth, actually hurt your health and spoil your pleasure.

Ordinary brushing can't get this scum off plate or bridge—can't protect you against "denture breath." But just try Polident! Polident not only cleans—it actually purifies plates and bridges without brushing. It gets every bit of scum, tarnish, stain and odor—dissolves it away and leaves your plate sweet and clean as new.

Your breath will be fresher, your mouth feel cleaner—and your plate last longer and look better. Polident is approved by dental authorities, Good Housekeeping and tens of thousands of delighted users. Long-lasting can costs only 30¢ at any drug store.

POLIDENT Cleans, Purifies Like Magic

Put plate or bridge in ½ glass of water. Add a little Polident powder. Leave in 10 to 15 minutes—rinse—and it's sweet and purified—ready to use!

Prevents "Denture Breath"

City Gets 'Black Eye' As Baseball Town As Legion Moves Games

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BASEBALL suffered a severe setback in this city when Dewey Durant announced the removal of the remaining American Legion games to rival cities in the Central Ohio semi-pro league because of poor support. This incident again brings up the question whether Mansfield is really interested in baseball.

ERNIE LOMBARDI

From the support offered the Legionnaires, not to mention other clubs in the city, it would be difficult to sell the idea that this is a red-hot baseball town.

Perhaps Mansfield wants professional baseball, not the semi-pro brand. But regardless of what it prefers, Mansfield suffered the infliction of a "black eye" as a baseball city by the removal of the Legion's home games from the Fairground because of poor attendance.

Catchers and third basemen have the best chance of entering the ranks of major league managers. Five of the 16 current big league pilots learned the game behind the plate and five others received their education at the hot corner. Two were second basemen, one was a pitcher, one a first baseman, one an outfielder and the other is a shortstop Of course, this lineup probably will be somewhat changed by the time the next season opens.

Cleveland will see Sonja Henie again next winter. Her ice extravaganza will play every city that saw the show last year with the exception of Miami. Mike Jacobs, who promoted Sonja's Miami appearance lost more than $20,000 on the venture. He had to build an outdoor rink and refrigeration plant for only one engagement. Incidentally, you'll notice a fair-sized reduction in prices next winter.

'Sleepy' Glenn Has 'Em Three Deep on West Virginia Club

He's Set to Meet All Comers, Including Pittsburgh; Clay Bryant Stops Giants Cold.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—If Fred Apostoli and Young Corbett don't open the Garden's indoor season Oct. 3, they'll settle their middleweight dispute in the same arener (as Announcer Harry Balogh would announce) on Nov. 18. . . . That guy licking his chops down there at Morgantown, W. Va., is "Little Sleepy" Glenn, head football coach at West Virginia. . . . He has 'em only three deep in every position and is set for all comers, including Pitt.

Galehouse Comes Through for Tribe

Doylestown, O., Boy Hurls Indians Within 1½ Games of Leading Yanks.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Denny Galehouse, a big right-hander who has promised much and delivered little toward the Cleveland Indians hopes for the American league pennant, today finally came through in a "clutch."

With Johnny Allen unable to take his regular mound turn because of a sore arm, Galehouse was sent to the box in the opening game of the crucial series with the Boston Red Sox here yesterday.

Starts Off Wobbly.

An Ohio boy who appeared to have every requisite of a winning pitcher and yet couldn't deliver when the chips were down, Galehouse pushed aside the disappointing past and gave the Tribe a coveted 7 to 4 victory.

The triumph enabled Cleveland to gain one full game on the pace-setting New York Yankees who were toppled by Detroit. The Indians now trail by 1½ games.

Galehouse was off to a wobbly start and was nicked for three runs and eight hits in the first three innings. Thereafter he settled down and pitched superb ball the remainder of the way. In the final six rounds the Red Sox were able to secure only four safeties. Their last run came in the ninth inning.

Manager Joe Cronin was forced to use three members of his short-handed mound corps against the Indians. Emerson Dickman, the rookie who blanked the Tribe with only three hits when he faced them a week ago at Boston, received the starting assignment, but was driven to cover in the fourth. Archie McKain and Jim Bagby shared the burden the remainder of the way.

The Indians made 11 hits off the three Red Sox hurlers and garnered at least one safety in each inning. Cleveland scored one run in the first, another in the second, two in the third, and finished their run-making with a three-run splurge in the fourth.

Lyn Lary and the usually hard-hitting Hal Trosky were the only Indian players not to secure a hit. Bruce Campbell with three safeties in five times up was the leading slugger.

Play Twin Bill.

With his gamble on Galehouse a winning one, Manager Oscar Vitt had to take another pitching chance today when he called on the veteran Earl Whitehill for a starting assignment in one game of a vital double header. Mel Harder was to work the other. Jack Wilson and Fritz Ostermueller were slated to do the Red Sox mound chores.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF NEWS-JOURNAL NET MEET STARTS TREK OF PLAYERS TO PRACTICE COURTS

TODAY Mansfield tennis players started their preparations for The News-Journal's annual tournament in earnest.

Announcement of the elimination in yesterday's edition had hardly reached the streets before the racquet wielders started checking up on their game.

This year's tournament should draw the largest entry ever to compete in the annual event because of the additional events.

In addition to the men's singles and doubles and mixed doubles, the tournament will include singles eliminations for senior girls and junior boys and girls.

All players under 18 years of age will be permitted to compete in the junior divisions, and all of the matches will be scheduled for play at Liberty park under the supervision of the Mansfield Tennis association.

The time and courts of senior matches will again be left to the participants as in the past.

In an attempt to complete play before the end of the month, the deadline for entries has been set for 6 p. m. Friday, with first round play starting Sunday.

No entries will be accepted after the deadline as the pairings must be published in Saturday's issue of The News-Journal to enable play on Sunday.

The tournament is not confined to Mansfield players. Any player in Richland county may compete, but the requirements are that all matches be played on city courts

Suitable trophies and merchandise awards will be presented to the News-Journal champions.

The entry blank for the tournament may be found elsewhere on this page. Fill it out right away and mail or bring it to The News-Journal sports department.

Remember, Friday—6 p. m.—is the deadline

'It's a Hot-and-Cold Club,' Says Mr. Gabby; His Shot in the Arm Seems to Help Cubs

By AURELIUS KINSEY

CHICAGO—(AP)—A "hypo shot" into a "hot-and-cold club" was the first thing Charles Leo (Gabby) Hartnett thought about when he replaced Charley Grimm as manager of the Chicago Cubs.

The mere suggestion seemed to work because the Cubs trotted onto the diamond with their new manager and beat Brooklyn 5-2 in the first of a double-header and held the Dodgers to a 1-0 win in the second. A few days later they swept a 3-game series with the Giants.

All that seemed to strengthen some of Hartnett's views, aired shortly after P. K. Wrigley announced his appointment.

"It's a hot-and-cold club," Gabby said. "And all I can hope for is that we can inject a hypo which will keep them hot all the time."

Then Hartnett hinted that the shot in the arm might jolt some of the boys.

"I don't expect to ask for anything too tough," he declared "But those guys have got to produce for me—and I mean produce. They've got to come through. I don't intend to ask anything outside of the ordinary. But I'm going to be tough.

"We'll have the same disciplinary rules," he continued. "Midnight curfew and so on. The only change will be that I'll stay up an hour later every night figuring out what pitchers I'll use."

He expects to ease up along other lines, however.

"The only thing I'm going to change is morning practice," he said. "No more of that. Those who weren't in the regular lineup used to have to come out at 10:30 while the regulars came out at 1:20. From now on everybody will come out at 12:45 or 1 o'clock. It's too late in the season for morning practice, I believe."

Gabby was nicknamed that because he wasn't Gabby at all. It was at Catalina Island, Calif., back in 1922, when Hartnett first went to the Cubs' camp that someone kidded him because he seldom opened his mouth. They dubbed him "Gabby" and he's been so ever since.

"From the time they started calling me Gabby I decided I might as well be that way," he said. So now if Hartnett has an opinion to air he airs it aplenty.

Charlie Grimm is out as manager and he walked out saying that "if Hartnett can't get a winner out of them I don't know who can. He knows plenty about baseball and handling a ball club."

Gabby is in and he went in saying, "It fulfills an ambition I've had ever since I reached the big leagues. I'm as happy as a kid with a new toy."

And — in the background — stands the silent figure of Tony Lazzeri, who was purchased from the New York Yanks last winter to be the Cubs' coach, strategist and utility second-baseman. Rumor had it that the taciturn Italian baseball veteran hoped to boss the big-league club some day.

Tony may, some day, but today it's the roaring Irishman, Gabby Hartnett, who is boss.

GABBY HARTNETT . . . he lays down the rules.

MELTON'S SUSPENSION 'CLUB BUSINESS'—TERRY

NEW YORK—(UP)—Cliff Melton, New York Giant southpaw hurler, was under indefinite suspension today. Manager Bill Terry refused to reveal the reason, describing it as "club business." It came as a complete surprise since Melton had won nine games this year. He won 20 last year in his first season in the majors.

Umpire Gets in Way, Suffers Broken Wrist.

ST. LOUIS — (U.P.) — Umpire Harry Geisel attempting to cover a play at third base in the Browns - Washington Senators game here yesterday suffered a broken left wrist and was knocked unconscious when he collided with Billy Sullivan, Browns catcher, who was running bases at the time.

Geisel was stationed behind the plate and the bases were loaded when Oral Hildebrand, Browns' pitcher, singled. Red Kress scored from third and Sullivan, who had been on second base, was rounding third when he met Geisel, going the other way. Geisel was carried from the field on a stretcher. Sullivan got to his feet and tried to score, but was put out. Manager Gabby Street of the Browns protested the game because of the collision. St. Louis lost the contest 5 to 3.

Poffenberger has been the "problem child" of the Tigers this year. He recently was suspended by Manager Mickey Cochrane for insubordination. Last week he was reinstated.

Poffenberger has won four and lost six for the year.

Allen Benton, who was sent to Toledo earlier this year, will be recalled to take Poffenberger's place, it was announced.

DELUXE CABS PLAY THURSDAY, FRIDAY

DICK VAN DYNE'S DeLuxe Cabs face plenty of trouble on the softball field the last half of this week.

Thursday the Cabbies engage an All-Star team selected from the stronger clubs of the city at Prospect park, and they go against the Beeber-Ross Beers in the third of their seven-game series at Johns park Friday.

Then Sunday, after a day's rest, the De Luxe team participates in the district softball tournament to open at League park.

No pitching selection has been made for Thursday's game, but Ben Fried will hurl against the Beeber-Ross club in an attempt to gain the Cabs' first victory of the series.

Van Dyne has high hopes of his team taking the measure of the Beers, who dropped a 5 to 1 decision to the Crestline Kooler Kegs last night.

Canzols Open Second Half With 6-4 Win

Score Two Runs in 7th to Break 4-All Deadlock.

The Ira D. Ling Canzols, who won the first half championship, defeated the Mohican Chevrolets, 6 to 4, at Liberty park yesterday to open their drive for the second half honors in an auspicious manner.

The Canzols never trailed after taking a 1 to 0 lead in the first inning, but the Chevrolets knotted the score 4-all with a three-run splurge in the fifth.

The champions had to wait until the seventh and last inning to win the ball game with a pair of tallies.

Both pitchers, Wiegand of the Canzols, and Boyer of the Chevrolets, were hit rather hard, yielding nine and 11 hits, respectively. Wiegand struck out seven.

Ziegler led the attack for the Canzols with a triple and two singles. Kenny Lockhart obtained a pair of singles. Lewis, Donnan and Olin each obtained a pair of blows for the Chevrolets, with Straub contributing a double. The fielding of Olin was a feature of the contest.

Low-Hit Games Feature Play.

Low-hit games featured the resumption of play in the city recreation Intermediate baseball league games at the Fairground yesterday.

Idle since a week ago because of the county fair, the pitchers did not lose their cunning during the layoff. Meeker of the Browns, for instance, yielded only one hit as he registered a 2 to 1 victory at the expense of the Senators.

In addition to hitting a home run, Freiheit gave up only two hits as he pitched the Tigers to a 10 to 1 triumph over the Yanks. Donnan led the Tigers with three hits. Freiheit struck out nine without issuing a walk.

Yellow Ball Slippery; 'Dye Comes Off'—Fitz.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—(U P)—The Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2, yesterday in a National league game in which the yellow baseball was used for the first time in the major leagues. Most players agreed there was nothing unusual about the ball.

"It was a little harder to throw because the dye came off it and made it slippery," Freddy Fitzsimmons, Brooklyn pitcher, said. Some of the players complained the ball seemed to be dead—probably because dyeing the cover took some of the liveliness out of it.

Bissman Golf Lead Secure

Holding a five-point lead, the Bissman company golfers are in no danger of losing their News-Journal Class B league lead Thursday when play is resumed at Possum Run.

But the Bissman club faces a battle when it engages Al's Kicks, who are making a serious fight in their attempt to gain a first division berth.

The matches involving the Central Fruit and News-Journal clubs will be watched with interest. The Fruit team, which holds a one-point lead over the newspapermen for third place, meets the Auxter Motors and The News-Journal faces the second place Metal Vaults. The O. P. S. and Elks clash in the other match.

'Bama Boy Puzzles Giants, Yields Two Hits

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

CHICAGO—(UP)—Clay Bryant picked up a baseball one day down in Birmingham, Ala., and a companion said to him: "You can really throw that ball." People kept saying the same thing to Bryant but he couldn't win ball games. Then he found the magic touch. Today he is one of the greatest right-handed pitchers in the National league.

With Gabby Hartnett coaxing him behind the plate, Bryant pitched the best game of his major league career yesterday—a two-hit shutout over the New York Giants. He not only pitched the Cubs to a 7-0 victory but he beat Carl Hubbell. The triumph narrowed the margin between the second place Giants and the third place Cubs to a game and a half.

Hubbell himself got the first hit in the sixth off Bryant. Mel Ott doubled in the seventh for the second and last hit off the Cub pitcher.

Pittsburgh lost its second straight game when Johnny Lanning of the Boston Bees held the National league leaders to four hits and enabled the Boston Bees to score a 3-1 victory.

The Cincinnati Reds kept pace with the Cubs, who are only one game ahead of the Rhinelanders, by defeating the Phillies, 3-2.

Using a yellow baseball the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-2, in the first game of a double header. In the second game using a regulation baseball the Dodgers again won, 9-3. The twin triumph enabled the Dodgers to climb into fifth place, one percentage point ahead of the Bees.

The New York Yankees had their American league lead cut to a game and a half when they lost to the Detroit Tigers, 4-3.

Washington beat the St. Louis Browns, 5-3, and the Chicago White Sox won from the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-4, in the other two American league games. Gabby Street, Browns manager, protested Washington's victory because of a collision between Umpire Harry Geisel and Billy Sullivan, racing for home on a close play.

IT'S more than a year since the death of Jean Harlow but the public is still interested in her. A story of her mother, appears in a movie magazine, publicizing her sorrow. William Gargan, who is living in the Harlow home, is so bothered with sightseers that he has had to erect a six-foot fence around the place to protect his children . . . It isn't often the public is so loyal to the memory of an idol. As a matter of fact, the public is loyal to a dead idol much longer than to a living one whose foot slips on the ladder of fame. Pictures of Valentino are flooding magazines, along with the re-issue of his old pictures, which are doing excellent business wherever they are shown.

A Million for a Friend.

Marjorie Weaver, the brown-eyed lass who entered the movies by way of a beauty contest at the University of Indiana where she was a student, gets her first big break as leading lady to Warner Baxter in "I'll Give A Million," which plays the Ohio the last half of the week. Miss Weaver has appeared in eight pictures in small roles, notably "Kentucky Moonshine," "Sally, Irene and Mary," and "Life Begins In College." In the Baxter picture she plays the daughter of circus clown, Jean Hersholt. The picture gets its title from the disillusioned millionaire who avows that he'd give a million for one real friend. Peter Lorre plays a comedy role for a change, the hobo who falls heir to Baxter's suit of clothes and a pocketful of money.

One Woman's Family.

The story of one woman's family is told in "My Bill," the screen adaptation of the stage play "Courage" which brings Kay Francis to the Madison screen today. The woman is a beautiful widow who has gone through with funds left by her husband and whose children berate her soundly for it. In her predicament only two stand by her—a childhood sweetheart and her youngest son, Bill. Dickie Moore, who is outgrowing his babyish face and voice, and who is almost a veteran in screen performances, has the role of Bill. John Litel plays the old friend and her other children are Anita Louise, Bobby Jordan and Bonita Granville.

"David Copperfield."

The picture which was one of the best of its year and which introduced to American audiences a young star that has since become a great favorite, will be brought back to Mansfield for a three days showing at the Majestic, starting Thursday. It is "David Copperfield" and among its many stars is Freddie Bartholomew who made his debut in it. Among the many stars who appear in this first screen version of the Dickens' classic are W. C. Fields, Lionel Barrymore, Maureen O'Sullivan, Madge Evans, Edna Mae Oliver, Lewis Stone, Basil Rathbone, Roland Young, Frank Lawton, Elizabeth Allen, Herbert Mundin and many others. A secondary attraction is Smith Ballew in "Panamint's Bad Man."

Dramatic Milestone.

One of the most unusual and dramatic photographic sequences ever made in the history of motion pictures is shown in "The Hurricane," Ritz theater attraction. In fact, it is so unusual as to be classed as a milestone in action photography. The picture is really divided into two sequences, the imprisonment of Terangi and his desperate attempts to escape; and the storm which destroyed an island and a nation of South Sea islanders. The hurricane takes up more than half of the picture. Jon Hall, a most promising newcomer, plays Terangi and Dorothy Lamour is Marama, his wife. Mary Astor, C. Aubrey Smith, Thomas Mitchell, Jerome Cowan and Raymond Massey have major roles. "Little Miss Roughneck" with Leo Carrillo and Edith Fellows is the second feature.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BASEBALL suffered a severe setback in this city when Dewey Durant announced the removal of the remaining American Legion games to rival cities in the Central Ohio semi-pro league because of poor support. This incident again brings up the question whether Mansfield is really interested in baseball.

ERNIE LOMBARDI

From the support offered the Legionnaires, not to mention other clubs in the city, it would be difficult to sell the idea that this is a red-hot baseball town.

Perhaps Mansfield wants professional baseball, not the semi-pro brand. But regardless of what it prefers, Mansfield suffered the infliction of a "black eye" as a baseball city by the removal of the Legion's home games from the Fairground because of poor attendance.

Catchers and third basemen have the best chance of entering the ranks of major league managers. Five of the 16 current big league pilots learned the game behind the plate and five others received their education at the hot corner. Two were second basemen, one was a pitcher, one a first baseman, one an outfielder and the other is a shortstop Of course, this lineup probably will be somewhat changed by the time the next season opens.

Ernie Sheds Tears for Old Philly Park.

ERNIE LOMBARDI, perhaps the biggest reason why the Reds are in the first division, was heartbroken when the Phillies moved into Shibe park. Lombardi had a lifetime batting average of .575 for the old Philly park.

Cleveland will see Sonja Henie again next winter. Her ice extravaganza will play every city that saw the show last year with the exception of Miami. Mike Jacobs, who promoted Sonja's Miami appearance lost more than $20,000 on the venture. He had to build an outdoor rink and refrigeration plant for only one engagement. Incidentally, you'll notice a fair-sized reduction in prices next winter.

'Sleepy' Glenn Has 'Em Three Deep on West Virginia Club

He's Set to Meet All Comers, Including Pittsburgh; Clay Bryant Stops Giants Cold.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—If Fred Apostoli and Young Corbett don't open the Garden's indoor season Oct. 3, they'll settle their middleweight dispute in the same arener (as Announcer Harry Balogh would announce) on Nov. 18. . . . That guy licking his chops down there at Morgantown, W. Va., is "Little Sleepy" Glenn, head football coach at West Virginia. . . . He has 'em only three deep in every position and is set for all comers, including Pitt.

* * *

Don't let anybody try to tell you this Clay Bryant didn't hoil himself a ball game at the Polo grounds yesterday . . . His fast 'un was knocking the buttons off the Giants' shirts. . . . Winner of tonight's flyweight go here between Small Montana and Katsumi Morioka, the Japanese-Canadian, will meet Little Dado of California for Benny Lynch's old title. . . John Henry Lewis' $300,000 suit against the three members of the New York boxing commission is expected to be filed today. . . And now comes Doug Smith from Trail, B. C., to suggest that Tony Galento may have caught his cold from being "froth bitten." . . . to which we say ouch with a big O.

* * *

There's a tall one going the rounds out at Hobbs, N. M., that Ernie Lombardi's nose is so long he can light a cigarette, stand under a shower and not get the coffin tack wet. . . . Izzat so Schnoz? . . . Minnesota must have something on the ball at that . . . Bernie Bierman spends 12 months a year in the state, Fritz Crisler is in his eighth consecutive summer at Lake Bemidji.

Correction: Johnny Vander Meer and Dusty Cook didn't have to sleep on the old veranda in Cincinnati because of the heat—it was in St Louis . Now that the damage has been undone the Rhinelanders can order up another stem. . . . Burgess Whitehead says his side still hurts a little. . . . Gosh, but it's hot up here.

Turn Goo-Goo Eyes On Macon Lefty.

MORE than one big league scout is turning goo-goo eyes on Jake Baker, southpaw of the Macon Peaches in the Sally league.

He recently won five shut-outs in a row with 49 consecutive scoreless innings . They tell you here the Baltimore Orioles got 25,000 potatoes, plus the loan of Blondy Ryan, for Chalmer Cissell . . . Owner George Preston Marshall has hired an 80-piece marching band to ballyhoo his Washington Redskins this fall.

Galehouse Comes Through for Tribe

Doylestown, O., Boy Hurls Indians Within 1½ Games of Leading Yanks.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Denny Galehouse, a big right-hander who has promised much and delivered little toward the Cleveland Indians hopes for the American league pennant, today finally came through in a "clutch."

With Johnny Allen unable to take his regular mound turn because of a sore arm, Galehouse was sent to the box in the opening game of the crucial series with the Boston Red Sox here yesterday.

Starts Off Wobbly.

An Ohio boy who appeared to have every requisite of a winning pitcher and yet couldn't deliver when the chips were down, Galehouse pushed aside the disappointing past and gave the Tribe a coveted 7 to 4 victory.

The triumph enabled Cleveland to gain one full game on the pacesetting New York Yankees who were toppled by Detroit. The Indians now trail by 1½ games.

Galehouse was off to a wobbly start and was nicked for three runs and eight hits in the first three innings. Thereafter he settled down and pitched superb ball the remainder of the way. In the final six rounds the Red Sox were able to secure only four safeties. Their last run came in the ninth inning.

Manager Joe Cronin was forced to use three members of his shorthanded mound corps against the Indians. Emerson Dickman, the rookie who blanked the Tribe with only three hits when he faced them a week ago at Boston, received the starting assignment, but was driven to cover in the fourth. Archie McKain and Jim Bagby shared the burden the remainder of the way.

The Indians made 11 hits off the three Red Sox hurlers and garnered at least one safety in each inning. Cleveland scored one run in the first, another in the second, two in the third, and finished their run-making with a three-run splurge in the fourth.

Lyn Lary and the usually hard-hitting Hal Trosky were the only Indian players not to secure a hit. Bruce Campbell with three safeties in five times up was the leading slugger.

Play Twin Bill.

With his gamble on Galehouse a winning one, Manager Oscar Vitt had to take another pitching chance today when he called on the veteran Earl Whitehill for a starting assignment in one game of a vital double header. Mel Harder was to work the other. Jack Wilson and Fritz Ostermueller were slated to do the Red Sox mound chores.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF NEWS-JOURNAL NET MEET STARTS TREK OF PLAYERS TO PRACTICE COURTS

TODAY Mansfield tennis players started their preparations for The News-Journal's annual tournament in earnest.

Announcement of the elimination in yesterday's edition had hardly reached the streets before the racquet wielders started checking up on their game.

This year's tournament should draw the largest entry ever to compete in the annual event because of the additional events.

In addition to the men's singles and doubles and mixed doubles, the tournament will include singles eliminations for senior girls and junior boys and girls.

All players under 18 years of age will be permitted to compete in the junior divisions, and all of the matches will be scheduled for play at Liberty park under the supervision of the Mansfield Tennis association.

The time and courts of senior matches will again be left to the participants as in the past.

In an attempt to complete play before the end of the month, the deadline for entries has been set for 6 p. m. Friday, with first round play starting Sunday.

No entries will be accepted after the deadline as the pairings must be published in Saturday's issue of The News-Journal to enable play on Sunday.

The tournament is not confined to Mansfield players. Any player in Richland county may compete, but the requirements are that all matches be played on city courts.

Suitable trophies and merchandise awards will be presented to the News-Journal champions.

The entry blank for the tournament may be found elsewhere on this page. Fill it out right away and mail or bring it to The News-Journal sports department.

Remember, Friday—6 p. m.—is the deadline.

'It's a Hot-and-Cold Club,' Says Mr. Gabby; His Shot in the Arm Seems to Help Cubs

By AURELIUS KINSEY

CHICAGO—(AP)—A "hypo shot" into a "hot-and-cold club" was the first thing Charles Leo (Gabby) Hartnett thought about when he replaced Charley Grimm as manager of the Chicago Cubs.

The mere suggestion seemed to work because the Cubs trotted onto the diamond with their new manager and beat Brooklyn 5-2 in the first of a double-header and held the Dodgers to a 1-0 win in the second. A few days later they swept a 3-game series with the Giants.

All that seemed to strengthen some of Hartnett's views, aired shortly after P. K. Wrigley announced his appointment.

"It's a hot-and-cold club," Gabby said. "And all I can hope for is that we can inject a hypo which will keep them hot all the time."

Then Hartnett hinted that the shot in the arm might jolt some of the boys.

"I don't expect to ask for anything too tough," he declared "But those guys have got to produce for me—and I mean produce. They've got to come through. I don't intend to ask anything outside of the ordinary. But I'm going to be tough.

"We'll have the same disciplinary rules," he continued. "Midnight curfew and so on. The only change will be that I'll stay up an hour later every night figuring out what pitchers I'll use."

He expects to ease up along other lines, however.

"The only thing I'm going to change is morning practice," he said. "No more of that. Those who weren't in the regular lineup used to have to come out at 10.30 while the regulars came out at 1.20. From now on everybody will come out at 12:45 or 1 o'clock. It's too late in the season for morning practice, I believe."

Gabby was nicknamed that because he wasn't Gabby at all. It was at Catalina Island, Calif., back in 1922, when Hartnett first went to the Cubs' camp that someone kidded him because he seldom opened his mouth. They dubbed him "Gabby" and he's been so ever since.

"From the time they started calling me Gabby I decided I might as well be that way," he said. So now if Hartnett has an opinion to air he airs it aplenty.

Charlie Grimm is out as manager and he walked out saying that "if Hartnett can't get a winner out of them I don't know who can. He knows plenty about baseball and handling a ball club."

Gabby is in and he went in saying, "It fulfills an ambition I've had ever since I reached the big leagues. I'm as happy as a kid with a new toy."

And — in the background — stands the silent figure of Tony Lazzeri, who was purchased from the New York Yanks last winter to be the Cubs' coach, strategist and utility second-baseman. Rumor had it that the taciturn Italian baseball veteran hoped to boss the big-league club some day.

Tony may, some day, but today it's the roaring Irishman, Gabby Hartnett, who is boss.

GABBY HARTNETT . . . he lays down the rules.

MELTON'S SUSPENSION 'CLUB BUSINESS'—TERRY

NEW YORK—(UP)—Cliff Melton, New York Giant southpaw hurler, was under indefinite suspension today. Manager Bill Terry refused to reveal the reason, describing it as "club business." It came as a complete surprise since Melton had won nine games this year. He won 20 last year in his first season in the majors.

Umpire Gets in Way, Suffers Broken Wrist.

ST. LOUIS — (U.P.) — Umpire Harry Geisel attempting to cover a play at third base in the Browns - Washington Senators game here yesterday suffered a broken left wrist and was knocked unconscious when he collided with Billy Sullivan, Browns catcher, who was running bases at the time.

Geisel was stationed behind the plate and the bases were loaded when Oral Hildebrand, Browns' pitcher, singled. Red Kress scored from third and Sullivan, who had been on second base, was rounding third when he met Geisel, going the other way. Geisel was carried from the field on a stretcher. Sullivan got to his feet and tried to score, but was put out. Manager Gabby Street of the Browns protested the game because of the collision. St. Louis lost the contest 5 to 3.

CHARGES HOSTAK, STEELE OF SAME ORGANIZATION

NEW YORK—(UP)—Bill Brown of the New York boxing commission said today he had heard that Al Hostak and Freddie Steele, principals in the middleweight "title" fight last week at Seattle, were controlled by the same organization." Brown made his statement at a commission meeting during an explanation of why Hostak of Seattle was not recognized in New York state as titleholder after knocking out Steel in the first round.

DELUXE CABS PLAY THURSDAY, FRIDAY

DICK VAN DYNE'S DeLuxe Cabs face plenty of trouble on the softball field the last half of this week.

Thursday the Cabbies engage an All-Star team selected from the stronger clubs of the city at Prospect park, and they go against the Beeber-Ross Beers in the third of their seven-game series at Johns park Friday.

Then Sunday, after a day's rest the De Luxe team participates in the district softball tournament to open at League park.

No pitching selection has been made for Thursday's game, but Ben Fried will hurl against the Beeber-Ross club in an attempt to gain the Cabs' first victory of the series.

Van Dyne has high hopes of his team taking the measure of the Beers, who dropped a 5 to 1 decision to the Crestline Kooler Kegs last night.

Canzols Open Second Half With 6-4 Win

Score Two Runs in 7th to Break 4-All Deadlock.

The Ira D. Ling Canzols, who won the first half championship, defeated the Mohican Chevrolets, 6 to 4, at Liberty park yesterday to open their drive for the second half honors in an auspicious manner.

The Canzols never trailed after taking a 1 to 0 lead in the first inning, but the Chevrolets knotted the score 4-all with a three-run splurge in the fifth.

The champions had to wait until the seventh and last inning to win the ball game with a pair of tallies.

Both pitchers, Wiegand of the Canzols, and Boyer of the Chevrolets, were hit rather hard, yielding nine and 11 hits, respectively. Wiegand struck out seven.

Ziegler led the attack for the Canzols with a triple and two singles. Kenny Lockhart obtained a pair of singles. Lewis, Donnan and Olin each obtained a pair of blows for the Chevrolets, with Straub contributing a double. The fielding of Olin was a feature of the contest.

Low-Hit Games Feature Play.

Low-hit games featured the resumption of play in the city recreation Intermediate baseball league games at the Fairground yesterday.

Idle since a week ago because of the county fair, the pitchers did not lose their cunning during the layoff. Meeker of the Browns, for instance, yielded only one hit as he registered a 2 to 1 victory at the expense of the Senators.

In addition to hitting a home run, Freiheit gave up only two hits as he pitched the Tigers to a 10 to 1 triumph over the Yanks. Donnan led the Tigers with three hits. Freiheit struck out nine without issuing a walk.

Bissman Golf Lead Secure

Holding a five-point lead, the Bissman company golfers are in no danger of losing their News-Journal Class B league lead Thursday when play is resumed at Possum Run.

But the Bissman club faces a battle when it engages Al's Kicks, who are making a serious fight in their attempt to gain a first division berth.

The matches involving the Central Fruit and News-Journal clubs will be watched with interest. The Fruit team, which holds a one-point lead over the newspapermen for third place, meets the Auxter Motors and The News-Journal faces the second place Metal Vaults. The O. P. Yellow Ball Slippery; 'Dye Comes Off'—Fitz.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—(U.P.)—The Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2, yesterday in a National league game in which the yellow baseball was used for the first time in the major leagues. Most players agreed there was nothing unusual about the ball.

"It was a little harder to throw because the dye came off it and made it slippery," Freddy Fitzsimmons, Brooklyn pitcher, said. Some of the players complained the ball seemed to be dead—probably because dyeing the cover took some of the liveliness out of it.

'Bama Boy Puzzles Giants, Yields Two Hits

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

CHICAGO—(UP)—Clay Bryant picked up a baseball one day down in Birmingham, Ala., and a companion said to him, "You can really throw that ball." People kept saying the same thing to Bryant but he couldn't win ball games. Then he found the magic touch. Today he is one of the greatest right-handed pitchers in the National league.

With Gabby Hartnett coaxing him behind the plate Bryant pitched the best game of his major league career yesterday—a two-hit shutout over the New York Giants. He not only pitched the Cubs to a 7-0 victory but he beat Carl Hubbell. The triumph narrowed the margin between the second place Giants and the third place Cubs to a game and a half.

Hubbell himself got the first hit in the sixth off Bryant. Mel Ott doubled in the seventh for the second and last hit off the Cub pitcher.

Pittsburgh lost its second straight game when Johnny Lanning of the Boston Bees held the National league leaders to four hits and enabled the Boston Bees to score a 3-1 victory.

The Cincinnati Reds kept pace with the Cubs, who are only one game ahead of the Rhinelanders, by defeating the Phillies, 3-2.

Using a yellow baseball the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-2, in the first game of a double header. In the second game using a regulation baseball the Dodgers again won, 9-3. The twin triumph enabled the Dodgers to climb into fifth place, one percentage point ahead of the Bees.

The New York Yankees had their American league lead cut to a game and a half when they lost to the Detroit Tigers, 4-3.

Washington beat the St. Louis Browns, 5-3, and the Chicago White Sox won from the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-4, in the other two American league games. Gabby Street, Browns manager, protested Washington's victory because of a collision between Umpire Harry Geisel and Billy Sullivan, racing for home on a close play.

IT'S more than a year since the death of Jean Harlow but the public is still interested in her. A story of her mother, appears in a movie magazine, publicizing her sorrow. William Gargan, who is living in the Harlow home, is so bothered with sightseers that he has had to erect a six-foot fence around the place to protect his children . . . It isn't often the public is so loyal to the memory of an idol. As a matter of fact, the public is loyal to a dead idol much longer than to a living one whose foot slips on the ladder of fame. Pictures of Valentino are flooding magazines, along with the re-issue of his old pictures, which are doing excellent business wherever they are shown.

A Million for a Friend.

Marjorie Weaver, the brown-eyed lass who entered the movies by way of a beauty contest at the University of Indiana where she was a student, gets her first big break as leading lady to Warner Baxter in "I'll Give A Million," which plays the Ohio the last half of the week. Miss Weaver has appeared in eight pictures in small roles, notably "Kentucky Moonshine," "Sally, Irene and Mary," and "Life Begins In College." In the Baxter picture she plays the daughter of circus clown, Jean Hersholt. The picture gets its title from the disillusioned millionaire who avows that he'd give a million for one real friend. Peter Lorre plays a comedy role for a change, the hobo who falls heir to Baxter's suit of clothes and a pocketful of money.

One Woman's Family.

The story of one woman's family is told in "My Bill," the screen adaptation of the stage play "Courage" which brings Kay Francis to the Madison screen today. The woman is a beautiful widow who has gone through with funds left by her husband and whose children berate her soundly for it. In her predicament only two stand by her—a childhood sweetheart and her youngest son, Bill. Dickie Moore, who is outgrowing his babyish face and voice, and who is almost a veteran in screen performances, has the role of Bill. John Litel plays the old friend and her other children are Anita Louise, Bobby Jordan and Bonita Granville.

"David Copperfield."

The picture which was one of the best of its year and which introduced to American audiences a young star that has since become a great favorite, will be brought back to Mansfield for a three days showing at the Majestic, starting Thursday. It is "David Copperfield" and among its many stars is Freddie Bartholomew who made his debut in it. Among the many stars who appear in this first screen version of the Dickens' classic are W. C. Fields, Lionel Barrymore, Maureen O'Sullivan, Madge Evans, Edna Mae Oliver, Lewis Stone, Basil Rathbone, Roland Young, Frank Lawton, Elizabeth Allen, Herbert Mundin and many others. A secondary attraction is Smith Ballew in "Panamint's Bad Man."

Dramatic Milestone.

One of the most unusual and dramatic photographic sequences ever made in the history of motion pictures is shown in "The Hurricane," Ritz theater attraction. In fact, it is so unusual as to be classed as a milestone in action photography. The picture is really divided into two sequences; the imprisonment of Terangi and his desperate attempts to escape; and the storm which destroyed an island and a nation of South Sea islanders. The hurricane takes up more than half of the picture. Jon Hall, a most promising newcomer, plays Terangi and Dorothy Lamour is Marama, his wife. Mary Astor, Aubrey Smith, Thomas Mitchell, Jerome Cowan and Raymond Massey have major roles. "Little Miss Roughneck" with Leo Carrillo and Edith Fellows is the second feature.

FEAR OF NEW WAR AFFECTS STOCK MARKET

Prices Turn Irregular in Response to Intensified Russo-Japanese Crisis.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—After a brief period of strength, the stock market turned irregularly lower today in response to the intensified Russo-Japanese crisis over the border hostilities.

Stocks opened higher and then moved up in a continuation of yesterday's recovery but soon ran into selling. Most of the gains were wiped out and a number of leaders showed losses on the day.

Steels were prominent in the early rise, gains running to a point in Bethlehem. These gains were lost later while Crucible showed a small loss.

A similar pattern was displayed by the motors, where losses replaced gains running to over a point in Chrysler. American Smelting was strong in the coppers but others in the group eased after a rise at the start.

In the blue chips, Philip Morris ran up more than 2 to a new high but lost this later. Westinghouse dropped a point, as did Johns Manville.

There was a flurry in the aviations, attributed to speculative demand due to the hostilities. Douglas was up nearly 2 points at one time but best prices were not held.

HONORS DIVIDED IN 4 PRIMARIES

New Dealers and Opposition Both Score Victories in State Tests.

towns" of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, won a 3-to-1 victory over William E. Dodd, jr., son of the former ambassador to Germany. The vote, with 10 precincts missing, was: Smith 19,601; Dodd 6,530.

Smith, a rules committee member who fought the wage-hour bill, claimed the right to vote as he thought best on administration measures, while the 32-year-old Dodd had said, "a vote for me is a vote for Roosevelt." Smith was on the "blacklist" of labor's nonpartisan league (CIO), but he led 2-to-1 in Alexandria, home of John L. Lewis.

The only other Virginia house race was much closer. Rep. Norman Hamilton, calling himself pro-Roosevelt despite his vote against the government reorganization bill, lost by about 1,500 votes to former Rep. Colgate Darden, whom he had unseated in 1936. Hamilton said Darden was backed by Sen. Harry Byrd's organization.

Pro-Nazi Loses.

In yesterday's Republican primaries, greatest interest was shown in the Kansas senatorial race because of campaign charges that one of the four candidates—Rev. Gerald Winrod—was pro-Nazi. Winrod, who denied the accusation, ran third.

The nomination went to former Gov. Clyde Reed. The count in half the state gave him 22,000 more votes than Dallas Knapp, running second, and 26,000 more than Winrod. Rev. J. C. Fisher trailed.

Gov. Walter Huxman, Democrat, was renominated without opposition. State Sen. Payne Ratner, who like Reed lives in Parsons, Kans., was ahead for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Winner of the Republican senatorial contest in Missouri was former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield, who easily defeated politically unknown Ray E. White, St. Louis real estate man.

Senator Clark polled three and a half times as many votes in the first half of the state to report as did his three opponents combined, Joseph T. Davis, Willis H. Meredith, and Robert I. Young.

Misouri Democrats, who had taken Clark's victory for granted, were more interested in a fight for a state supreme court nomination between forces of Gov. Lloyd C. Stark and T. J. Pendergast, Kansas City party leader.

James V. Billings, endorsed by Pendergast, took an early lead because Kansas City's precincts were counted early, but Judge James M. Douglas gradually pulled ahead as returns came in from St. Louis, his home town.

Returns from 4,071 of the state's 4,428 precincts, including 725 of 783 in St. Louis and all of the 547 in Jackson county (Kansas City) gave Douglas 390,581 votes and Billings 291,678.

Clark had a total of 489,357 votes in 3,838 precincts. The vote of his opponents: Joseph T. Davis, 79,691; Willis H. Meredith 31,219, and Robert I. Young 21,805.

Yesterday's primaries formed a sort of curtain-raiser for two fiercely-fought contests to be settled later this week. Tennessee Democrats will pick their senatorial and gubernatorial favorites tomorrow and Kentucky Democrats will pick their senatorial and gubernatorial favorites tomorow, and Kentucky Democrats will choose Saturday between Sen. Alben W. Barkley and his challenger, Gov. A. B. Chandler.

The senate campaign expenditures committee has denounced campaign tactics in both states, and has investigators on the scene.

said, he heard a commotion and groans upstairs. Grabbing a wrench and a hammer, he hurried to the upper landing. Dr. Littlefield was "bent over," Dwyer said, after being kicked by Carroll.

Dwyer testified that he swung at Carroll with a wrench, but it came apart and rolled downstairs. Carroll took the hammer away, Dwyer said, and beat the doctor on the head.

"Do you mean to kill Dr. Littlefield?" Dwyer said he asked.

"'No, I didn't intend to kill him,' Carroll replied. 'I will go downstairs to my automobile and get some whiskey and bring him to'."

When Carroll went downstairs, Dwyer said the doctor reeled into the bathroom.

"I carried him to a washstand," Dwyer continued. "The doctor asked for water. Those were the only words he spoke and those were the last words he spoke."

After Carroll had killed the doctor, Dwyer testified, he and the defendant wrapped the body in a blanket and carried it outdoors to Dr. Littlefield's automobile.

Dwyer drove to the doctor's home and then motored aimlessly, Dwyer testified. The slaying of Mrs. Littlefield was not mentioned since neither Dwyer nor Carroll has been charged with that crime.

Spirit Runs High as 'Sales Mean Jobs' Campaign Gets Underway in Mansfield.

tral park last night to hear Dr. George Allison, president of the Edison Electric Institute of New York City explain the crusade. Dr. Allison held the attention of his audience every minute, providing as much entertainment as sales talk: He and J. Gilbert Baird, master of ceremonies, kept the crowd in high good spirits throughout the hour and a half of standing.

Dr. Allison, who was introduced by Richard Fensch, general chairman of the crusade, caught the interest of his audience when he asserted that "this country hasn't gone to pot and it's not going to pot. There is no party or clique that is big enough to break this country."

The present depression, he said, was largely a mental attitude, which is fanned by the theme of "I'm buying as little as I possibly can right now." That slogan alone, he said, was enough to paralyze the industry of a nation and bring unemployment to millions.

Explains Crusade.

"The whole purpose of this crusade," he said, "is to get people to buy; people who can buy to buy up to the limit of their needs and ability to pay. The entire economic system of the world is built on a barter and trade basis, and this era is no different from the days when John Jones made a pair of leather boots and traded them to the village tailor in exchange for a suit of clothes."

"This country has been on a buyers' strike," he said, "and such a strike injures the striker as well as the merchant and the men who make the merchandise."

Preceding Dr. Allison's talk several Mansfield men were introduced and spoke briefly on the crusade. They included A. E. Allen, vice president of the Westinghouse in charge of the Mansfield plant; Judge C. H. Huston, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Mayor Claude M. Hunter, and C. M. Crafton, president of the Retail Merchants association.

Allen said that the manufacturers in Mansfield as well as the rest of the country were back of the "Sales Mean Jobs" crusade, and pointed out that it wasn't unemployment that brought the slump, but a slump in buying that forced manufacturers and business concerns to lay off their employes.

Adding entertainment to the occasion was the Rhythmettes trio—Jane Weuthrich, Ruth Cox and Dorothy Clingan—who sang "The Merry-Go-Round Broke Down" and "Whistle While You Work."

The "Sales Mean Jobs" campaign, which is being sponsored locally by the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants, will continue throughout August.

CHAPTER 6

Nick Luigi took the cigar from his mouth and said in his queer, rather secretive voice, "You'll do, kid. Don't know where you learned to dance like that, but you're the very sort of kid we're looking for."

So Noel had a job for which she would be paid a flat sum of $2 every night. She and Laurie could have a good lunch now, and she would take the girl home with her to the room on Court street.

It was surprising how the prospect of a good meal cheered Noel up. Two dollars seemed like real money.

She hurried back to Front Street park to tell Laurie the good news. They sat there a while and talked things over, then had lunch, after which Noel gave Laurie a dollar out of her little store, and the address on Court street.

* * *

Laurie, who had at first regarded Noel's offer of friendship with a slight suspicion, believed in her completely now. "I never dreamed of finding a friend like you," she said with tears in her eyes "But I'll get a job and some day I'll pay you back."

Noel gave her a friendly touch on the shoulder. "We'll both get jobs sooner or later. Then everything will be fine."

Noel knew already that she wasn't going to stay at the Peacock Dance Hall any longer than she could find something else. The building was nice enough, in good repair, consisting of three stories with the dance place on the main floor. But it was Nick Luigi himself Noel distrusted. The way he had looked at her out of his pale eyes gave her a feeling of resentment. She didn't intend staying there a moment longer than she had it.

At 6 o'clock Noel went to the DeLuxe. She decided she wouldn't venture again to Julian's office, remembering Ruth Chester's rebuff, and the fact that there had been something malicious about the way she had closed Julian's office door in her face.

Walking down Madison, when Noel had about reached the cafe, she saw Ruth Chester coming out of the revolving doors of the Medical Arts building—and following her was Julian. He started to walk on with Ruth. Then he saw Noel and quickly crossed the street. "Look here, young lady," he exclaimed, taking Noel's arm, "I've got something serious to say to you."

* * *

AFTER JULIAN had discovered Noel as he came out of the Medical Arts building, they entered the De Luxe, a place for which Noel was beginning to have a real respect. She sat back and let Julian order, luxuriating in the white-tiled cleanliness of the place, the clatter of spotles dishes and the savory odor of broiling steaks and good food.

Now and then she stole a glance at Julian's dark face, his clean-cut profile, and the slight suggestion of a dimple in his firm chin. It was wonderful to be sitting here beside him in this bright clean place. She closed her eyes on a little dizzying wave of happiness. Already she was beginning to understand some of the joy of simple things, and was conscious of a new appreciation and alertness of her senses.

Julian finished giving the waitress the order. Then he looked at Noel, a troubled expression on his face. "Noel, I've been thinking of you almost every minute since you convinced me that you actually intended going through with this reckless idea."

"How flattering!" she said lightly, beginning to apply herself to the green salad.

"Now, none of your flippancy," Julian reproved with mock severity. "The more I think of your idea of going to work, the more fantastic it seems," he continued "I didn't believe your aunt would go off without you. I thought she would disapprove in no uncertain words."

"Frankie?" Noel looked up with a teasing smile. "She didn't try to dissuade me," she went on thinking affectionately of her aunt and hoping she was not being too bored in California alone.

"Listen, my child," Julian went on in his gentle admonitory voice, "it was Shakespeare, I think, who made the sage remark to the effect that 'the working-day world is full of briars' and that's the way you'll find it. No less. You'd better decide right here and now to join your aunt wherever she is."

"Couldn't think of it," Noel said smilingly, as she took a sip of what she was sure was the most delicious milk she had ever tasted. She hadn't tasted milk in ages, but Julian had insisted in his masterful way, had ordered it over her little protest, and here she was drinking it. "Really, I'm having a perfectly grand time," Noel went on, her voice a little more boastful than she had intended it to be.

"All right then," Julian suddenly capitulated. "But I insist on having a full and complete report of what you're doing, and what you're expecting to do."

* * *

Noel hadn't expected this. She pretended to be engrossed in her salad, while she thought over how she should answer him. She wouldn't dare tell him that the only place she had at present was that of a taxi dancer in a cheap club. He would immediately find a dozen objections. In fact, he was quite capable of packing her off to Frankie before she could realize he was doing it. Julian had a way of getting things done. She had already found that out.

Finally she said with a smile, still not looking up from her salad, "You'll be glad to hear that I'm in line for a—a really nice place. I think I'll get it tomorrow."

"Tell me about it," Julian relaxed and smiled.

At this juncture Noel became very interested in her lamb chop. It was her nature to be frank on all occasions, but she thought the situation she faced now would justify a bit of equivocation. After all, she didn't intend staying at the Peacock a minute longer than she had to.

"You see, it's this way, the job I'm expecting—hoping to get . . . is that of a kind of nursery governess. I think I could hold down a place like that. But I haven't—that is, I don't know yet whether I'll get a place like this or not. It what I'm looking for."

Julian's expression cleared entirely. "That is very sensible, Noel. You'd be protected in a place like that."

Noel lifted her eyes then and said demurely, "Is it because you feel a sense of responsibility toward me, or are you really interested in my—career?"

Julian smiled teasingly "Purely a sense of responsibility, my dear. After all, I'm the cause, unwittingly, of course, of your getting such ideas into your head."

"So that's the only reason, is it?" she asked after a slight pause.

Julian smiled straight into her ardent blue eyes. "All right, then. I'll admit that I'm interested in you personally," he said, and went on as though against his will, "interested far more than any young doctor with his career hardly started should be in a girl like you, who has practically the whole world for her playground, and any number of wealthy young playfellows at her feet."

"But suppose all that means nothing to me?" she protested.

"You've put yourself in a fine position to find out just how much it does mean," his answer came back with emphasis. Then he added, "Of course I know it's only a matter of a short time before you'll be only too willing to go back to your flesh-pots."

"That's what you think!" Noel retorted. "You told me I didn't have any stamina," she went on. "You practically told me I was useless except for—for decorative purposes. Don't you know any girl on earth would resent that? Well, I still say I am going to show you that you are wrong. And I haven't the slightest intention of giving up and going back until I've accomplished what I set out to do." Her eyes flashed with determination.

A glow came into Julian's eyes. When he spoke, it was quite irrelevantly, "I could wish you were not quite so attractive, Noel."

"Do you really?" she mocked lightly.

"No, not really," he suddenly acquiesced with the whimsical smile she loved. Then he rose. "I've got to get back to the clinic this very minute." His eyes were serious now. "Whether you get tired of this unequal struggle or not, Noel, let me hear from you every day or so. Promise me again."

"I promise," Noel said in a low voice.

"Stay and finish your dinner. You've only been toying with it," he advised, then added, "Good night," as he rose.

"Good night, Julian," Noel said softly, her voice lingering in a little unconscious caress on the last word.

NATIONAL SALESMEN'S CRUSADE

SALES MEAN JOBS

Thousands Will Be Wearing This Button In August!

MANSFIELD RESPONDS WITH ENTHUSIASM . . TO THE "SALES MEAN JOBS" CAMPAIGN!

"Sales Mean Jobs"--Buy What You Need

HOW DID THE IDEA ORIGINATE?

Lincoln, Neb., is an average American town.

Recently folks there had been feeling a little blue about business, although business itself was pretty good.

But blue talk does more to hurt business than anything else.

A little over a month ago, officials of the Nash Kelvinator Company went to Lincoln.

They wanted to try out the National Salesmen's Crusade idea they had developed

They talked to civic minded business men to workers, to housewives, to salesmen and to farmers The chamber of commerce pointed out it should be a community enterprise, not just an idea to help one firm.

The idea began to catch on.

Business men liked it.

Every type of business got busy.

Salespeople all over town pinned "Sales Mean Jobs" buttons on their lapels.

Telegraph boys wore them.

Newspaper carrier salesmen wore them.

Everybody wore buttons.

1,800 people jammed the high school mass meeting to hear about the Crusade.

The public got the spirit, decided it was good sportsmanship to do a little extra buying to make their own jobs more secure, to create new jobs.

In a week the city of Lincoln hit a new peak of good feeling.

Business improved substantially. But that was only part of the effect.

Folks felt optimistic, talked optimistically, helped create jobs for more people!

Now the idea is catching on everywhere.

The meeting at Central Park last night was only one of thousands being held throughout the nation.

Last Night Throngs Met at Central Park for a Rousing Kick-off to This City's Participation in The National Salesmen's Crusade!

What Is The National Salesmen's Crusade?

It's a new plan to make jobs that's sweeping the country. It's not a theory.

It's already been proved a success.

It's based on the sound economic fact that:

SALES MEAN JOBS - JOBS MEAN MONEY - MONEY MEANS SALES

From coast to coast, the public, which does the buying, and the sales people who do the selling, are telling each other "Sales Mean Jobs."

It's very simple. Throw a pebble into a pond and eventually every particle of water is moved as a result of the splash made by the pebble.

Buy a Toothbrush, an Insurance Policy, a Straw Hat and You Set Up a Wave of Employment!

Take the purchase of a tooth brush, for instance.

Buy a tooth brush and you make a sale for the sales person. The store must replace the sold brush.

The factory must turn out another brush.

Raw material must be purchased.

Transportation companies must carry the brush, and so through a long chain of activities your purchase helps scores of men and women employes.

Because You Bought a Tooth Brush, a New Auto, a Pair of Shoes, the Jobs of Many People, INCLUDING YOUR OWN, Are Made More Secure!

Let a thousand, ten thousand articles be bought and not only are jobs made secure but NEW jobs are created. New jobs mean more purchasing power. More purchasng power means better times!

That's the basis of the National Salesmen's Crusade. Sales people everywhere are pledging themselves to work a little harder . . . to tell more people about the articles they have to sell.

What can you do?

Join In . . . Let Yourself Buy a Few of the Things You Want!

Relax your grip on your purse string a little. Unroll the sock and let a few dollars fly out.

The articles you buy will help make jobs and help make your own job more secure.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1938.

Mansfield Joins the Forward Movement.

OFF to a good start, with a well-attended meeting in Central park last night and every indication of enthusiastic public co-operation, Mansfield's share in the nation-wide "Sales Mean Jobs" crusade is well under way today.

Speakers at last night's meeting explained the plans and purposes of this intelligent approach to the problem of ending the depression and re-creating several million jobs all over the country by requiring larger industrial production as a result of increased sales through resumption of normal buying.

While the complexities of mass production and distribution, in meeting the needs of 125,000,000 people, may be difficult to understand, the simple fact is clear that each person in the United States is dependent on others and that each contributes a share to either prosperity or depression.

Maintenance of standards of living to which a large percentage of Americans have become accustomed requires earning and spending by millions of people, to the total of from fifty to seventy-five billion dollars a year.

When earnings, beyond the requirements of reasonable thrift, are hoarded instead of being used to buy necessities and luxuries, the entire process of production and distribution is disturbed—employment falls off, relief needs become greater and everybody loses.

As was said by Dr. George Allison in his talk last night, the natural resources of the United States are greater than ever before and possibilities for the future have never been brighter. All that is needed to bring about the greatest era of substantial prosperity the country has ever experienced is restoration of confidence, coupled with co-operation of government, employers and employes along all lines involving necessary work of every kind.

Mansfield's present share in this forward movement is to display faith in this "Sales Mean Jobs" crusade, which has already proved its worth in 500 cities, and to shake off the feeling of fear which has seriously handicapped normal buying by those who have been regularly employed but who have postponed buying many things they need and can afford to have.

And with such a wave of normal buying all over the country it will not be long until Mansfield industries will reflect the results in need for greater production and consequent requirement for more employes.

Mansfield is in position to profit quickly from its enthusiastic co-operation in this "Sales Mean Jobs" crusade.

European Friendship.

GREAT BRITAIN has achieved another diplomatic success which is almost overlooked in consideration of its troubles in western Europe. Through the skilful work of Sir Percy Loraine, ambassador to Turkey, Britain has won the complete support and admiration of the Turkish government and people.

The Turkish foreign minister speaks warmly of a new friendship with Britain based on "confidence and solidarity." No matter what happens, he avows, Turkey never will be found in a camp opposing Britain.

Diplomacy was greatly assisted in this victory by a generous loan of sixteen million pounds which was made without strings. Britain asked nothing in return, no special privileges in time of peace or war. And having asked nothing, Britain has received much. "We will show her," says this official, "that this faith is not misplaced."

Toledo Newspaper Suspends.

TOLEDO, with a population of 300,000, has not been supporting its second afternoon newspaper, the News-Bee, to the extent of making profitable operation possible, according to an announcement of suspension of publication just issued by that newspaper.

Similar conditions have been found to exist in other good-sized cities in Ohio and other states, resulting in the many newspaper suspensions or consolidations that have come about in recent years.

Notable Ohio examples are Youngstown, with one newspaper in a city of 170,000, and Canton, with a population above 100,000, also served by one daily newspaper.

Costs of newspaper equipment, maintenance and operation, have mounted to such a high point within the past ten years that competing newspapers—except in a few very large cities—have found it difficult to operate at a fair margin of profit, and in some instances, as with the News-Bee's case, have sustained considerable losses.

In its announcement of suspension the News-Bee said: "The decision to retire from the field was based on the conviction, finally, that two afternoon papers cannot be published, with a fair profit to both, in Toledo."

Censorship In Bolivia.

GENERAL satisfaction with Bolivia for submitting her Paraguayan dispute to arbitration is modified by her move against freedom of the press. The Bolivian congress, sitting with powers of a constitutional convention, has given the president power to suppress conservative newspapers.

This power is to last until a new press law can be enacted, supplanting the old constitutional provision that "everyone shall have the right to publish his thoughts without prior censorship."

The expected change is to "fit the ideology of Bolivia" and to allow full liberties only to the organs of the press "which, by their economic and social attitude, are the true mouthpieces of public opinion." This sort of thing is very far removed from the American ideal, which insists on free speech alike for both Right and Left, as fairer and better in the long run for everybody.

It appears that at first Corrigan rather impulsively decided against accepting any of the big money offers—but that, on second thought, he intends to act human.

Trees may also be created equal—but Charlie McCarthy is worth more than some whole forests.

Voliva, who thinks the world is flat, believes he will live to be 120—and he seems to need at least that much time.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — The mechanism by which Germany has been able to float her South and Central American trade to rising levels was spotlighted in her recent interchange with Brazil which resulted in a temporary suspension of their trading.

In order to build up her foreign trade as a means of bringing home much needed raw products as well as cash Germany hit on a system of barter out of which developed a trade currency amounting to an indirect subsidy of her exports. The currency with which this trade is carried on is commonly called the "compensation mark' or "askimark."

Its value in the South and Central American trade varies in the different countries varies from day to day and even from purchase to purchase but averages around 20 per cent below the reichsmark. Since this devalued currency is accepted by Germany at face value for purchase of German goods, it permits South Americans to buy German goods at about 20 per cent below the quoted price.

Because U. S. currency also has been devalued, U. S. merchants could not legitimately kick at this German "devaluation" if it were on a firm basis. But askimarks wooble in value up and down until Yankee traders are at their wits' end to compete for trade against it.

* * *

They Sell, But Must Buy.

FOR several years Germany has gained steadily, some of it outright new business, some at the expense of U. S. traders, although evidently little, and a greater amount at the expense of England. (Steady as was the German gain, however, the United States exceeded it in 1937.)

When Germany pays for South American goods in askimarks, South American countries in return can buy German goods with them. But sufficiently unusual trade terms have been imposed by Germany that several American countries have expressed distaste for the exchange, advantageous though it is for them to have an outlet for their raw products.

To a degree it straightjackets their trade so that when they sell to Germany they must also buy an equal amount, a condition leaving them subject to German trading whims. That is made especially acute because Germany ordinarily buys faster than she delivers, leaving the South Americans with an excess of askimarks. Brazilian banks holding a surplus of askimarks often have to sell them at a loss.

While Germany pays altogether with askimarks, she sometimes requires the South American Republics to pay in "free currency," that is, regular exchange, for certain German commodities, such as steel products.

* * *

U. S. In Ascendant.

TO WORM out some of these disadvantages, Brazil was steadily shrinking its holdings of askimarks when Germany abruptly suspended purchases.

During this time the U. S. also has been active. In 1935 a reciprocal trade treaty was concluded with Brazil. Further, U. S. prices fell late in 1937, giving Yankee dealers a new talking point. As a result sales increased so that in 1937 the U. S. supplied about 34 per cent of the South American imports compared with 31 in 1936.

Germany, meantime, had only a 13 per cent share of the South American market in 1937 compared with 15 the year previous.

Further, a Brazilian trade commission visited Washington in 1937 and went back impressed with two things: First, that, after all, the U. S. always has been her best and surest customer, in peace time and war; and second, that concessions granted to the U. S. in the trade treaty were being undermined by the subsidy regime of Germany.

Too little time has elapsed to determine South American reaction to Germany's abrupt suspension of purchases from Brazil, but observers surmise it may add to a growing list of minor grievances against German trade from which U. S exporters will benefit.

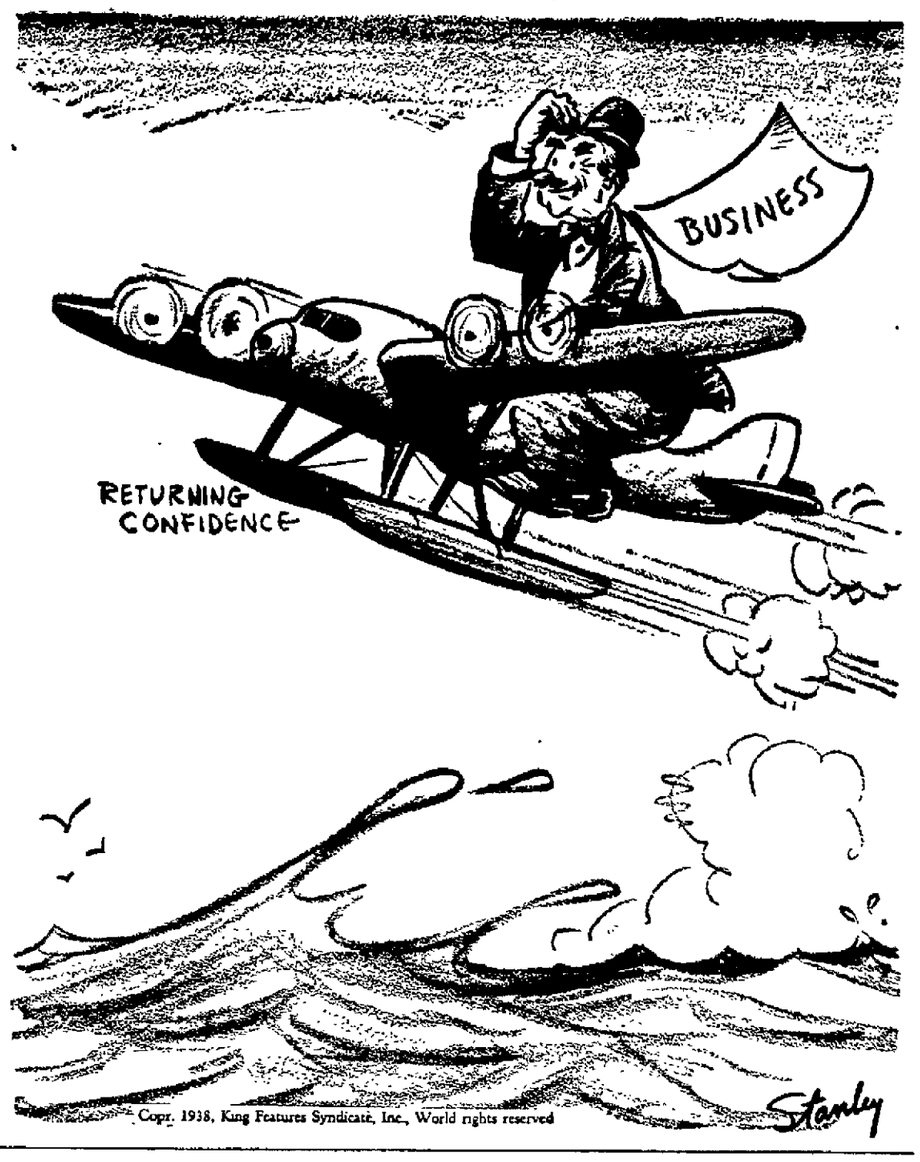
ANOTHER PICK-A-BACK FLIGHT



Labor, Capital's Common Interest

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Government testimony and labor's testimony relative to reported price fixing by the country's steel companies is rather conflicting.

From official sources the complaint has come repeatedly that the companies, when invited to submit bids on steel required for government purposes, pretty regularly submit identical ones, which officialdom interprets as indicative of collusion among them.

However, this rule is not invariable. Occasionally a company underbids its rivals and gets a big government contract.

Chairman Philip Murray of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee explains how, according to his account, the low-bidding companies make their bargains profitable to themselves. They do it, he says, by underpaying their labor.

* * *

CONFUSING?

The implication is that high steel prices, with a minimum of competitive price-cutting, represents the ideal situation from the organized workers' standpoint.

Nevertheless, it can't but mean price collusion among the better wage-paying companies—in short, monopoly. Which seems to place organized labor on the monopolists' side. Philip Murray does not express it that way, but it sounds so.

It is confusing to be told first that the steel companies keep prices high by not competing and then to be told that some of them do compete successfully with others at labor's expense. Still, that is what it amounts to. At the same time, the companies which pay the better wages are blamed as monopolistic, whereas the ones which compete are blamed for sweating their workers.

* * *

COMMUNITY OF INTERESTS?

It would seem to me that there is a certain community of interest between the organized workers and the supposedly monopolistic steel companies.

A similar community of interest is suggested between the organized mine workers and the coal mining companies. The existence of it is noticeable in the publicity which the mine owners and the miners have been broadcasting recently, respectively. The two groups, always considered in vehement opposition to one another, of late are appearing to be somewhat in sympathy.

They agree in finding fault with the kind of competition they are experiencing from rival fuels.

* * *

ALLIES HERE, TOO

Everyone knows that one reason why coal is a sick industry is the increasing use of oil and natural gas in the home and in factories, and the broad development of electric power.

That can't be helped altogether, but the coal folk's argument is that oil and gas are underbidding them unfairly. The miners are as resentful of this (if it is a legitimate complaint) as are the mine owners.

They are allies on this proposition.

* * *

COST CRITICIZED

Gas, for instance:

Wherever it is available it is charged for at a much higher rate to domestic than to industrial consumers.

The coal folk admit that a factory, as a wholesale buyer, is entitled to a lower price than a retail household. But as a matter of fact, the household pays approximately seven times as much in proportion as a factory. Coal owners and miners alike contend that this is a ridiculous spread, amounting to unfair competition—too much to households, entirely too little to factories.

Oil is criticized similarly.

* * *

IS IT THIS WAY?

The point is that there are places in our setup where capital and labor are beginning to recognize that they have interests in common.

That is to say, capital and labor in one industry are prepared to concede that they are not at war between themselves, but that they are at war, unitedly, against capital and labor in some other industry.

I do not know that it improves the situation, but it alters it.

Timely Editorial

Curving Up.

Figures compiled by the federal reserve board, together with other official and unofficial indexes, show conclusively that the month of June saw the first definite upward turn in business activity since the start of the precipitous downward slide nearly a year ago.

The board finds that in June its seasonally adjusted index of industrial production rose to 77 per cent of the 1923-25 average, as against 76 per cent in May. What is far more significant, the current month has seen a considerable acceleration of last month's slight upward trend. And this encouraging development has been reflected in a stiffening of the price level.

The current release of the bureau of labor statistics shows that its index of wholesale commodity prices reached, in the week ended July 16, the highest level attained since late in March. Sharp advances in the prices of farm products and foods led the movement. —Washington Post.

Mistakes In Allergy Diagnosis.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

DOCTORS are apt as anybody to run things into the ground. When a new idea comes out in medicine, there are those who begin to specialize in it, and for a while they think that every symptom on earth can be ascribed to one cause. As time goes on more sensible ideas begin to prevail.

It is a good sign then to have a report from the allergy society reporting mistakes in diagnosis by the allergists themselves.

Allergy came into fashion a few years ago, and has been made much of. It is a state of hypersensitiveness on the part of some individuals to dusts, flower dusts, animal dandruff and foods. A typical example of it is hay fever. The allergic person is sensitive to the pollens from certain plants, mostly ragweed. The rest of us, even though we are breathing the same pollens as the hay-feverite, are not affected. But because he is allergic to ragweed pollen, as soon as even the slightest bit gets in the air, he sneezes and sniffles and weeps.

Allergy as a state of the body undoubtedly exists and causes a variety of conditions, including asthma and many kinds of skin eruption. These facts are proved: everybody who has studied the question agrees to the allergic nature of hay fever, asthma and hives. Infantile eczema in most instances also belongs in this category.

Some Controversial Matters.

But there are some controversial matters: for instance, intestinal and gall bladder allergy. Can sensitizing substances, particularly foods, cause a spasm of the intestinal muscles or gall bladder muscles and thus produce symptoms? There is no logical reason why they can't. Sensitizing substances affect particularly smooth muscle—asthma is due to a spasm of the smooth muscles of the bronchial tubes. And the intestines and gall bladder have smooth muscles in their coats. No, there is no reason why such allergy should not exist, but does it?

Many allergy specialists have said it does. And they have often pointed triumphantly to cases where more conservative doctors have made a diagnosis of gallstones and then the patient was cured of his discomforts by removing certain foods from his diet.

It is quite a reversal then, and a sign of honest thinking, to have an allergist, Dr. Lambright of Cleveland, report on some cases in which the shoe is on the other foot. In these patients, the allergists diagnosed allergy and something else was found. In one, pain over the right upper abdomen was called allergy to wheat, but gallstones were found at operation. In another, allergic asthma was diagnised, but a hidden goiter pressing on a bronchial tube was the real cause of the distress. In still another, the heart, not pollens, was proved to be responsible for a case of asthma. Such reports indicate a healthy state of mind.

Listen, World!

Western Summer.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ALREADY—not yet six—the trees are drenched with life. Their leaves hang limp, soaked with the sun's bright rain.

But still the night scents last—thick fragrance of the pine, its sweetness harshly spiced with turpentine; perfume of willows, sharply fresh and green as the cool creek in which their roots are set; allspice of tar weed; wild rose; manzanita bush, whose bark smells of dried apples mixed with cinnamon. And, over all, the slow, strong breathing of the drowsy soil.

The earth still sleeps, sprawled vast and naked, under the wide sky, the vineyards clinging to it like a crumpled robe.

Beyond the vines, the trees. Pine forests, plumed with smoke, with shafts of copper set in long, dim aisles. Oak forests, with their dark, gnarled trunks and netted canopies, in which the sky seems caught in scraps of turquoise blue.

Nearer, tall eucalyptus trees on their silvery masts, with long leaves ghostly as gray, drifting fog. Old figs, their pale boles smooth as muscled swimmers, sunk waistdeep within the pooled green gloom of their own shade.

And then the tangled growth about the house. A web of jasmine, flung along the roof; a veil of roses, falling by the door; magnolias, creamy white on lacquered leaves and pomegranates with their cups of crinkly flame. Beneath it all the black adobe soil sun-baked and trampled to a hard, white tile.

Six. Seven, now. Like tightening wire, all the air grows taut. A killdee calls—its lonely, gypsy cry. The small dawn breezes stir once more, then die. The sky grows whiter; the blue shadows shrink.

Nine. Ten. Eleven.

Now it is high noon. The world's as still as some forgotten moon. There is no scent or movement, no shadow and no sound. Only the sunlight clangs against the hard, hot anvil of the ground.

Like painted films the miles of forests rise. Like painted flats the miles of vineyards lie. A buzzard hangs, unmoving, in the sky. Unmoving, Tony sleeps, face downward, by the barn.

Clang! It's one.

Clang! It's two.

The pines are peacock blue.

Clang! It's three—then four.

The light slants lower on the forest floor.

And now it's five. As though a spell broke, things become alive! Through the bleached grass there runs a movement like the turning tide. A gush of air! The trees breathe deeply; their limp foliage lifts. The flat earth stirs—gives out the odor of awakening flesh. Somewhere water tinkles.

There's a pattering — a tiny squeak. A rabbit scuttles through the chaparral. A mustang whinnies in the log corral. Doves coo—a small, soft thunder on the thick, still air.

Now there's a breeze! The sun slips, molten, through black bars of trees. Wine dark, the shadows pour down from the hills. And, with a rush, the waiting valley fills with color—rose and apricot that deepens into amber, then to mauve.

The creek's cool call comes nearer, full and clear.

From some low doorway comes the thin, sweet trembling of a Spanish mandolin.

Like a black wing, the night spreads slowly, through the dome.

A girl calls softly from the window of her home. The mocking bird's low song drips, slow as honey—

Then the song is gone.
The last light's vanished.
And the sky's ablaze with stars.

Any Old Cat.

He's long and sleek and lovely and he's snoozing in the sun. It's his own front yard and he'll drive any dog out of it. . . . The sun moves and a bit of shade creeps over and surprises him. He gets up and goes somewhere else where the sun will be warm upon him again.

(What a simple thing life is for that family cat . . . What he needs, he gets. What he wants he is almost sure to be given. If the sun moves, he moves. What he wishes, he does; and what he doesn't wish to do, no one can force him to do. He knows no tricks, wouldn't do them if he did know any.)

He wakes and washes himself. Licks his right front paw, rubs his right ear, licks and rubs, licks and rubs, flops over to his left side and licks his left paw, rubs his left ear, licks and rubs and licks again. Then licks his soft belly and his sides and drops suddenly to sleep again, purring gently.

(You'd think his tongue would get tired. . . . How easily his personal hygiene is. No hot and cold running water, no shaving, no shower, no toothbrushing. Just lick and rub and fall off to sleep.)

People go into the house. He follows and goes straight to the kitchen stove and his plate to see if any food is left. Somebody goes to the icebox. He follows. . . . The family sits down to dinner. He notices there's corn on the cob. That's his favorite and he hangs around in a persistent but gentlemanly way and asks: "When do I get a cob to chew on?" Finally somebody says, "Feed that cat and get rid of him!" . . . So he gets fed.

(How easy eating is for a family cat. No worries at all. He gets what he wants and is never asked to eat what he doesn't like. He balances his own menu and gives no thought to starches, proteins, vitamins or calories. He's his own never-failing dietitian.)

Lazy, energetic-when-he-washes, dignified, handsome, neat, self-satisfied, gentle, decent, unworried, popular, gentleman-of-the-leisure-class—that's any old family cat.

How It Started

Bad Beginning.

Let us hope it is not always strictly true that "a bad beginning makes a bad ending." For we make many bad beginnings that we hope to make turn out good endings. However, it is certainly true that a bad beginning is a very definite handicap stacking against us the odds for a good ending.

The very definite saying with which we express that thought, "A bad beginning makes a bad ending," if of ancient origin. Its author was the great dramatist, Euripides, who lived in the fifth century, B. C. It is in his "Aeolus" that we find the origin of this saying.

Life Tames Us.

"No thing shall tame me," Youth cried out,
For Life was at his call.
The days were gay and laughter rang.
Could evil then befall?

The years stood still a little while,
Or so they seemed to stand;
Youth had his fling and then at last
Life took its own command.

Life tames us, each and every one.
Youth flaunts his colors, gay,
But Life is ever watchful, Life
Claims all, we go her way.

Why fight against it? He is wise
Who lets Life teach him, learns
Not to fight back: he wisest is,
Who soonest this discerns.

DAVEY PLEDGES 'DOLLAR'S VALUE' IN ASHLAND TALK

Attacks Sawyer, Lewis, and Newspapers in Two Campaign Speeches.

Gov. Martin L. Davey promised to "make a dollar get a dollar's worth," of government, if re-elected governor, and continued his attack on Columbus and Cleveland newspapers in campaign addresses Tuesday at Ashland and Bucyrus. He spoke before about 450 persons at Ashland and 600 at Bucyrus.

While the governor spoke from the courthouse steps at Ashland, a special grand jury in the building was investigating alleged "shakedown," assessments against state highway employes for contribution to the Davey campaign fund.

Mentions Grand Jury.

Referring to the investigation, Davey said: "If it is impartial it can't hurt my administration, because there has been nothing done that was dishonest. If the jury is not impartial, then there is only one conclusion, and that is that it is purely anti-Davey," he added.

Called by Common Pleas Judge C. C. Chapman to investigate, alleged 5 per cent assessments against highway department civil service workers, the jury had examined 23 witnesses yesterday afternoon. There was no indication when the session might end.

Atty. Frederick Cuff of the staff of Atty. General Herbert S. Duffy, was in Ashland assisting in examining witnesses, including civil service workers of the Ashland state highway division.

'I'll Get Dollar's Worth.'

"I am a man whose heart serves in sympathy with the people, and a man who is determined to make a dollar get a dollar's worth," Davey declared at Ashland, as he reiterated his promise of four years ago, that if elected, he alone would be the governor of Ohio.

Davey asserted that Charles Sawyer, his opponent, supported by the CIO, has been given the personal blessing of John L. Lewis. Davey termed Lewis as an iron fisted, bull headed dictator.

Asserting that he would beat Sawyer "three to one," Davey in his talk at the Crawford county courthouse in Bucyrus attacked Ohio newspapers which have opposed him.

"I could have had the support of the Dispatch and the Journal (Columbus newspapers) if I had let them run my office," he said.

"I have kept the promise made during my first campaign that if elected I and I alone would run my office. The newspapers wasted reams of paper and gallons of ink telling about contributions to campaign funds which practice begun before I was born."

Operation of the liquor department was compared with the operation during the White administration.

"With the increased revenue I was able to raise the old age pensions," he said. James Miller, Bucyrus, appointee to the office of director of the department, was praised by the governor.

The address was preceded by a parade headed by the High school band.

Davey was introduced at Bucyrus by Dr. H. H. Hartman of Galion.

Cartwright, a member of camp No. 6495, located at Shreve, took out an insurance policy with the defendant in the sum of $1,000, payable to the plaintiff as his wife as beneficiary. Mr. Cartwright died Sept. 4, 1937, and the plaintiff asserts that the defendant rejected the claim for which she seeks judgment.

A FIELD OF CORN

THE corn is tall and mellow. The long blades curve gracefully down toward the soil; the tender white rib in the center stands out in contrast with the greenness of the blade and the main stalk. The heavy joints are prominent, and the anchor-like upper roots point like crooked fingers toward the ground. These soon will hold the weighted stalk from falling.

The tassel completes the stalk. Here the pollen grows. Soon the anthers slit and tiny grains of dust fall all about. Some, carried by the wind, sift over neighboring stalks many feet away. Beneath this virile shower, the well-wrapped ears stand upright, starting from the fourth or fifth joint and growing outward. Here at the very tip, shows a mass of silky hair, of various colors. Ants and bees sometimes work upon the sweet, sticky substance secreted from each hairy thread.

The threads connect with rudimentary grains of corn, far beneath the husk. When pollen dust falls on these sticky hairs, it eats its way, by some strange power, down through the tiny canal of the corn silk and makes fertile the waiting, watery grain. For every grain upon the ear—and there are hundreds—this process is completed, until the entire field of waving, rustling corn stands mature in the autumn sun.

In late September, the heavy stalk, with drying blades and sagging ears, is cut. Eight hills square, it is placed in a shock to dry. The top is tied with twine or fall grass, so the winds will not blow them apart. Often the thrifty farm wife has planted pumpkin seeds, and when the corn is cut, the golden spheres lie upon the ground.

What wonders of science, what miracles of food and growth, what natural beauty . . . all in a field of corn!

THAT homely old phrase, "Another day, another dollar," has a new and vitally important meaning for the man who dreams of owning his own home.

The year 1938 is most decidedly another day in the home-building world. Today's new home is so much more livable, durable and charming, so much easier to buy, that it makes the home of 1927 as obsolete as the automobile of ten or twelve years ago.

And today's home-building, home-buying dollar is just as definitely another—and a bigger—dollar. In 1938 you get from 25% to 40% more home—and not for the same money, mind you, but for less money than in 1926 or 1927.

New materials help stretch your dollars—lower cost, more cheaply applied materials that were unknown in 1926. And much of the work that used to be done slowly and expensively on the job is now done at the factory—ready-made door frames, windows, kitchen and other cabinet assemblies, standard lumber, many modern building products that come in planned units for speedy, labor-saving assembly.

The 1938 house, we repeat, is a 25% to 40% greater value—and here's why . . .

Your house will be better designed. Great strides have been made by the better architects and builders of the country in designing homes to eliminate waste space and to make them more attractive.

Your house will be better built. It must pass Federal Housing Administration inspection for quality specifications, sound principles of construction.

Your house will be more comfortable. Insulation, improved heating plants, air conditioning have given the modern house comfort that was never dreamed of ten or twelve years ago.

Your house will be more economical. Many materials have been developed which have eliminated items of expensive upkeep that were looked upon as a necessary evil of home ownership just a few years ago.

Your house will be more efficient. It will have better kitchen planning, with new and improved labor-saving devices, streamlined, built-in fixtures that remove the word drudgery from housekeeping, and better room arrangement that eliminates many of the errors of construction that meant added burdens to the housewife.

Your house will be safer. Fire-resistant insulation and building materials, healthier atmospheric conditions; all help minimize the hazards of the past . . . and with all this—

Your house will be far easier to finance. There never was a time when it was so easy to FINANCE a home. Long-term, low-cost Federal Housing Administration financing makes it possible to pay for a new home out of a modest-size income, with low monthly payments like rent, on a plan that gives you full ownership of the house in 20 years—and at a cost that in many cases is as much as 85% less than former financing costs.

• • •

Check the "specifications" of the charming home at the lower left, one by one from Point No. 1 to Point No. 16, and you'll agree that unquestionably America's outstanding value, America's No. 1 Bargain is a new home. Any one or all of the companies listed in this advertisement—as well as your architect, builder, realtor, lumber or building materials dealer—will be glad to furnish more complete information, together with interesting, helpful literature.

Confesses Slaying Ohioan After Quarrel In Tavern

COMPANION OF SUSPECT AND WOMAN JAILED

Accused Assailant Says Victim Called Him 'Nasty Name'; Three Held in Athens.

(By Associated Press)

WARREN—Edward Brady, 29, of Aliquippa, Pa., confessed in a signed statement today, Deputy Sheriff Al Weaver said, that he shot and killed Samuel Craig, 32, because Craig called him a "nasty name."

The shooting climaxed a tavern dispute early yesterday at Masury, O., near the Pennsylvania-Ohio line, the deputy said. A coroner's inquest was scheduled for today.

Weaver said refusal of Brady to drink with Craig, a Masury resident, led to a fight. Craig died in a Sharon, Pa., hospital from two body wounds, in the back and side.

Arrested With Woman.

Brady and a 24-year-old woman employe of the tavern were taken into custody last night at Aliquippa and returned immediately to Ohio.

In Brady's possession, the deputy said, was a .25 calibre automatic pistol from which three bullets had been discharged.

The deputy related that the woman fainted when the shooting occurred and was taken to a Youngstown hotel by another tavern employe. He said Brady and two men companions called for her in an automobile and proceeded into Pennsylvania.

One of Brady's companions is in custody and the other is sought, Weaver said. The man held told officers he drove Brady and the woman to Aliquippa without knowledge of the shooting and because Brady said he was "in a jam."

ATHENS — (AP) — Prosecutor Harold Rose said today he would file first degree murder charges against three young men who confessed that John O'Brien, 65-year-old filling station proprietor, was shot to death as they attempted to rob him.

The confessions were obtained late yesterday. Sheriff Charles Bayless said, from Carl Helwig, 23; his brother, Gilbert, 28, and John Faught, 21, all of New Lexington.

London Fugitive Caught, Reveals He 'Hid' In Jail

LONDON —(AP)— A London prison farm fugitive's story of how he "hid" in the Madison county jail for three days caused the ears of some law enforcement officers to turn red today.

The fugitive, Stewart Bennedum, 38, of Dayton, who escaped from the prison farm last Friday with five other convicts who slugged a guard, was recaptured by police in Columbus last night.

Madison county officers seized Bennedum and then released him while sheriff's deputies all over central Ohio were looking for him, and the state bureau of identification at the prison farm checked the fugitive's fingerprints while he was in jail and failed to identify him.

The prisoner sentenced to 1 to 15 years for burglary, was picked up by Sheriff Gorman F. Clark and Deputy Earl Lamb Saturday morning.

Bennedum was released Monday and hitch-hiked to Columbus, where police seized him on a street after being summoned by a woman whose suspicions were aroused.

Deputy Lamb said Bennedum's fingerprints were checked by a prisoner in the bureau of identification. Supt. T. C. Jenkins of the prison farm, who explained that the bureau is not under his jurisdiction, said he intended to inquire into why the prisoner failed to identify Bennedum's finger prints.

FALL DOWN SHAFT FATAL

TOLEDO —(AP)— Edward M. Mansfield, 78, died last night of injuries suffered yesterday when he fell 18 feet down an elevator shaft.

Broadens Inquiry Into Kentucky Primary

Up and Down THE STREET

Recollections of Mansfield, and of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Maxwell and Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Williams, enter into an article in the August issue of Christian Herald, written by Richard Maxwell, one of Mansfield's gifts to the radio, who now has a morning spot on the Columbia network with his Songs of Cheer and Comfort. Entitled "Heritage," the article also makes intimate reference to his parents and uncles.

Things looked bad yesterday for Bobby Woerth, 12, of 496 South Diamond street, and B-31, his entrant in today's News-Journal Soap Box Derby. After testing his car for speed before checking it at headquarters yesterday, Bobby's speedster broke loose from a tow car on a hill. And down went Bobby and the car in reverse, piling up against a curb. The jolt not only knocked the streamlined car out of shape, but wrecked it generally. But you'd never know it after Bobby completed his repair job. He was set to "go to town" today.

There's a lot of grief in store for a two-and-a-half year old vacationist when she returns from a visit with her grandparents at Willard. Yesterday her pup disappeared and at midnight her parents were still scouring the neighborhood for him. Shirley Ann Pittenger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pittenger, 362 West Third street, thinks no more of her bright blue eyes than she does of her black-and-white spotted terrier puppy. Spotty, as curious a pup as ever barked at the moon, either wandered away yesterday morning or some one coaxed him away. Anyone would recognize him by his name and the fact that he's tiny and answers to his name.

One advantage of being the chief executive of a city is that everyone—practically everyone knows your middle initial. Last night at the "Sales Mean Jobs" rally in Central park, Chairman Richard Fensch introduced the mayor as "Mayor Claude E. Hunter"—and on all sides you could hear a buzz of "that's not right—it's Claude M. Hunter." The average man's middle initial is usually known only to his mother and himself.

PROBE PRESSURE

Election Officials in Athens to Check Pensioner Reports.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Secretary of State William J. Kennedy today sent an aide in his office, James A. Walkner, to Athens to investigate widespread charges of "vote getting pressure" upon old age pensioners in Athens county.

A complaint was made to Kennedy by David Johnson, chairman of the Athens board of election, that employes of the old age pension division and the state highway department were urging pensioners to apply for disabled voters' ballots.

Johnson said already approximately 60 applications had been filed for this type of ballot. The number was termed "unusually large."

CITY WILL BUY AIR COMPRESSOR

Council Authorizes Purchase of Equipment for Street Department.

Purchase of an air compressor to be used in the street department was authorized by city council last night.

The legislation provides for a supplemental appropriation of $2,000 from the unappropriated gasoline tax fund and authorizes Service Safety Director Tracy C. Styerti to enter into a contract for the purchase of a mobile unit not to exceed $2,000.

Councilman George C. Kyle said he was "thoroughly opposed" to the city going into the machine age along with industry. He cast the only vote against the measure.

"It appears to me that this is just another machine to replace labor—you know the position that labor is in today—and I am opposed to any such transaction," Kyle said.

The air compressor is to be used by the street department to cut paving and tamp backfill in trenches in order to speed up repair work. It is being purchased primarily for use on the Woodland water improvement where the pavement on Lexington avenue will have to be cut to make way for the construction of a new high capacity main that will serve the mercantile district.

ASSOCIATION GIVEN SOLE RIGHT TO LIBERTY PARK CONCESSIONS

The sole authority of operating concessions in Liberty park today was in the hands of the Liberty Park and Civic association.

An ordinance granting the association this authority was approved by city council last night by a vote of 6 to 2.

The measure provides that the association shall have the "sole privilege of maintaining and operating at locations within the park, stands, tents or other temporary fixtures in connection with the sale of food and refreshments."

It also permits the association to conduct any type of concession associated with an amusement park, including shows, dances and all types of entertainment and amusements exhibited for profit.

The measure met opposition from Councilman George C. Kyle and Arthur C. Croak on the basis that council should not set a precedent by allowing the city parks to be turned into amusement centers.

"The city parks were created for recreation and should be kept that way and not be turned into an amusement park," Kyle said.

Croak said he was of the opinion that the permit should not be granted because the scope of the type of concessions included in the measure was "too broad."

The legislation however, provides that all profits from the concessions shall be used solely and exclusively for the beautification and improvement of Liberty park under the supervision of the service director.

It also provides that the association shall keep a record of all receipts and disbursements for each concession and that the records shall be open to inspection by the city auditor and service director at any time.

ANNUAL FEAST

Watermelon Festival at Johns Park Set for Friday.

Friday night the Johns Park association will hold its 16th annual watermelon festival at the park, with a band concert and a ball game as added attracions.

The watermelon festival, which annually attracts several thousand persons to the park is staged to raise funds for park equipment. Last year the profits were used to buy chairs, tables, dishes and silverware for community events. This year the funds will be spent to furnish an additional room in the park building for a community assembly hall, according to Harry Bowman, president.

A concert by the Senior High school band has been arranged by Robert Stevenson, general chairman of the festival, and a ball game between the Beeber-Ross and DeLuxe Cab teams is scheduled at 6:30 p. m. Besides watermelons, ice cream, sandwiches and soft drinks will be sold.

SENATE GROUP SENDS IN MORE INVESTIGATORS

Charges Both Barkley, Chandler Are Guilty of Improper Campaign Tactics.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate campaign expenditures committee broadened its investigation of the Kentucky primary today and increased its staff of investigators. Conditions there, the committee charged, were such as to "imperil the right of the people to a free and unpolluted ballot."

Without mentioning names, the committee charged that the campaign forces of Senator Alben W. Barkley who is backed by President Roosevelt for the state's Democratic senatorial nomination, and his opponent, Gov. A. B. Chandler, were equally guilty of improper tactics.

Adds More Investigators.

Chairman Morris Sheppard (D-Tex) revealed that H. Ralph Burton, committee invesigtator, had employed "three or four" assistants to extend the investigation.

Sheppard said that the committee would be on hand for the primary balloting Saturday to watch for evidence of irregularities. Six other investigators will watch the Tennessee primary Thursday.

The committee said the Kentucky investigation would be pushed "in order that the full facts may be developed and presented to the senate for its consideration and action."

This indicated, some observers believe, that the committee considered the Kentucky campaign was such that the right of the victor to a seat in the senate would be challenged in that body.

'After hearing Burton's evidence, gathered over one-third of the state, the committee said it was "certain that organized efforts have been and are being made to control the vote of those on relief work, and that contributions have been sought and obtained from federal employes, in behalf of one of the senatorial candidates."

Chandler forces charged that Barkley's backers had sought the help of federal office holders, and asserted that the WPA was working openly for the senator.

Barkley's group accused the Chandler organization of causing the state old-age pension and unemployment insurance organizations to distribute payments in a manner calculated to aid Chandler.

FAIR ENOUGH!

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW CANAAN, Conn.—An editorial crisis has been happily weathered by the Connecticut Nutmeg, the roguish weekly published by a little group of serious thinkers up here away from it all, of which Heywood Broun, the president of the Newspaper CIO union, is one of the contributing proprietors.

Gene Tunney, another of the contributing proprietors, composed an article for the issue of July 28, with intent to disparage the courage of his neighbor, Congressman Alfred Norton Phillips of Stamford.

Mr. Phillips, though a New Dealer by political profession, is an economic royalist, being an heir to a fortune amassed in the manufacture of a famous household remedy.

In congress he has been given credit for a determined, single-handed and, as yet, unsuccessful struggle to abolish the reptile houses of all the American zoological gardens, lest there come some time an earthquake to shake apart their cages and loose upon the land hundreds, or anyway, dozens, of venomous serpents.

It is a dreadful possibility which had never occurred to any other statesman, although there are several retreats, in the leafy hills hard by Congressman Phillips' home town, in which learned physicians carry on a ceaseless but not exactly selfish warfare against the reptiles which infest the hallucinations of noted scions and sciontesses who have overdrammed.

On a recent occasion, Congressman Phillips took a sock at the chin of Harold Skidd, a junior politician of the district. By Mr. Tunney's account, he missed and Skidd then bounced his one-two off the congressman's chin and swooned him in the arms of friends.

* * *

Mr. Tunney still further reported that on a previous occasion Congressman Phillips threw a punch at a man 30 years older than himself, missed, caught a right in return and fled, shouting: "A horse, a horse; my kingdom for a horse!"

Although the Connecticut Nutmeg has now rolled 11 issues, and was acclaimed as a paper in which thinkers of strong opinions would hit straight from the shoulder, as the Rotarians say, Mr. Tunney's article on the local congressman, rather oddly, was the first essay that might not have been published in the Washington Star without offense to the editorial policy of that friendly journal. Mr. Broun has been writing nature notes and puns.

* * *

But when Mr. Tunney fearlessly denounced Congressman Phillips, George Bye, the sort of editor, changed two words in the tail paragraph of his copy, strife broke out in the happy family of suburban editors.

He caused Mr. Tunney to say that Congressman Phillips enjoyed a fight, whereas he had intended to say the reverse, and Gene's humiliation was exceeded only by his wrath at Mr. Bye, of whom he demanded a written apology.

* * *

Beneath the surface of things up here, away from it all, it is more than half suspected that Neighbor Broun hankers for Mr. Phillips' seat in congress and that Mr. Tunney approves of his desire.

Mr. Broun has cultivated a William Jennings Bryan coiffure and a platform manner and Mr. Tunney has developed a truly remarkable political influence in the countryside. There are many Irish names among the roster of the leaders, and it is by no means fantastic to imagine that Mr. Tunney, skipping the lower house, may one day adorn the United States senate.

* * *

Mr. Broun cannot have Congressman Phillips' seat this year, being CIO in an A. F. of L. town, a Socialist and not a Democrat, and too new to the region to qualify with the organization. But two years from now, with Mr. Tunney's aid, Mr. Broun might receive that which he sometimes calls a mandate.

Mr. Bye has given Mr. Tunney his written apology, so The Nutmeg crisis is over now. They hired a reporter last week who is not a member of the Newspaper Guild, and The Connecticut Nutmeg's paid editorial staff is 100 per cent non-union. Life is real up here, away from it all.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

(Jo Swerling, the author, now writing Selznick-International's "Made for Each Other," today taps out an essay for Columnist Robbin Coons, who is on vacation.)

By JO SWERLING

HOLLYWOOD—Hospital records of the motion picture colony discloses the awful fact that the majority of nervous breakdowns occurs among the gentry whose function it is to provide the scripts.

There are many reasons for this, but the main cause is the Hays office. The common nightmare of writers is a hideous dream in which they run a gantlet between two lines of malevolent censors who beat them with clubs labeled: Can't! — Mustn't! — Censorable! —Barred!—Violation of the code! —Against public policy!—Offensive! — Objectionable! — Politically unsound! — Cut! — Eliminate!—Taboo!

Taboo! Taboo! Taboo! That's the principal reason for a great deal of the lousy product that comes out of Hollywood. (What a joy to be able to use the word "lousy" without fear of red pencil!)

Right from the start, when the idea for a story is germinated, the writer is faced with an infinity of prohibitions—the "don'ts" are endless, fantastic. It has come to a point now where only a picture like "Snow White" has a chance to pass, unscarred, through the censors boards. And even Mr. Disney's innocuous masterpiece had trouble in England.

* * *

The list of censor cuts in any year of production in Hollywood prove conclusively there is practically nothing you can say in a picture any more that won't offend somebody and hence must be eliminated.

The picture of the future, if the present gagging continues, will simply have to be written without a heavy. If the villain happens to be a German, there is a Nazi roar of rage and threats of dire reprisal from Berlin which sends the producer scurrying frantically to their cutting rooms to adjust matters. If the heavy is an Italian the scream of anger comes from Rome, with like results. You mustn't have an unpleasant character who is South American, Mexican, Chinese or Japanese, English, French or what have you. It used to be that you could make your villain a communist but the left wing hovers over Hollywood also and you mustn't. A Yankee is out of the question. You might take a chance on an Eskimo. But who ever heard of an Eskimo heavy?

* * *

You've got to lay off politics altogether. No race problems. Miscegenation is out. Nix on war. Steer away from social conditions. Eschew the class conflict. Soft pedal on sex. Avoid religion. In short, lay off of life. It's censorable.

The producing talent is here. There are technical experts whose knowledge is awe inspiring, splendid actors and actresses, able and competent writers, talent galore in every department—everything, in short, to turn out great pictures.

But you mustn't. It's all right in books, in magazines, in the newspapers, on the lecture platforms, even on the radio but not in the movies. The greatest blight on the greatest of all the contemporary arts is censorship. No great strides will ever be made until the creative forces unite to defeat their worst foe—the censor boards.

If this be treason, sue me.

THAT homely old phrase, "Another day, another dollar," has a new and vitally important meaning for the man who dreams of owning his own home.

The year 1938 is most decidedly another day in the home-building world. Today's new home is so much more livable, durable and charming, so much easier to buy, that it makes the home of 1927 as obsolete as the automobile of ten or twelve years ago.

And today's home-building, home-buying dollar is just as definitely another—and a bigger—dollar. In 1938 you get from 25% to 40% more home—and not for the same money, mind you, but for less money than in 1926 or 1927.

New materials help stretch your dollars—lower cost, more cheaply applied materials that were unknown in 1926. And much of the work that used to be done slowly and expensively on the job is now done at the factory—ready-made door frames, windows, kitchen and other cabinet assemblies, standard lumber, many modern building products that come in planned units for speedy, labor-saving assembly.

The 1938 house, we repeat, is a 25% to 40% greater value—and here's why . . .

Your house will be better designed. Great strides have been made by the better architects and builders of the country in designing homes to eliminate waste space and to make them more attractive.

Your house will be better built. It must pass Federal Housing Administration inspection for quality specifications, sound principles of construction.

Your house will be more comfortable. Insulation, improved heating plants, air conditioning have given the modern house comfort that was never dreamed of ten or twelve years ago.

Your house will be more economical. Many materials have been developed which have eliminated items of expensive upkeep that were looked upon as a necessary evil of home ownership just a few years ago.

Your house will be more efficient. It will have better kitchen planning, with new and improved labor-saving devices, streamlined, built-in fixtures that remove the word drudgery from housekeeping, and better room arrangement that eliminates many of the errors of construction that meant added burdens to the housewife.

Your house will be safer. Fire-resistant insulation and building materials, healthier atmospheric conditions; all help minimize the hazards of the past . . . and with all this—

Your house will be far easier to finance. There never was a time when it was so easy to FINANCE a home. Long-term, low-cost Federal Housing Administration financing makes it possible to pay for a new home out of a modest-size income, with low monthly payments like rent, on a plan that gives you full ownership of the house in 20 years—and at a cost that in many cases is as much as 85% less than former financing costs.

• • •

COMPANION OF SUSPECT AND WOMAN JAILED

Accused Assailant Says Victim Called Him 'Nasty Name'; Three Held in Athens.

(By Associated Press)

WARREN—Edward Brady, 29, of Aliquippa, Pa., confessed in a signed statement today, Deputy Sheriff Al Weaver said, that he shot and killed Samuel Craig, 32, because Craig called him a "nasty name."

The shooting climaxed a tavern dispute early yesterday at Masury, O., near the Pennsylvania-Ohio line, the deputy said. A coroner's inquest was scheduled for today.

Weaver said refusal of Brady to drink with Craig, a Masury resident, led to a fight. Craig died in a Sharon, Pa., hospital from two body wounds, in the back and side.

Arrested With Woman.

Brady and a 24-year-old woman employe of the tavern were taken into custody last night at Aliquippa and returned immediately to Ohio.

In Brady's possession, the deputy said, was a .25 calibre automatic pistol from which three bullets had been discharged.

The deputy related that the woman fainted when the shooting occurred and was taken to a Youngstown hotel by another tavern employe. He said Brady and two men companions called for her in an automobile and proceeded into Pennsylvania.

One of Brady's companions is in custody and the other is sought, Weaver said. The man held told officers he drove Brady and the woman to Aliquippa without knowledge of the shooting and because Brady said he was "in a jam."

ATHENS — (AP) — Prosecutor Harold Rose said today he would file first degree murder charges against three young men who confessed that John O'Brien, 65-year-old filling station proprietor, was shot to death as they attempted to rob him.

The confessions were obtained late yesterday. Sheriff Charles Bayless said, from Carl Helwig, 23; his brother, Gilbert, 28, and John Faught, 21, all of New Lexington.

London Fugitive Caught, Reveals He 'Hid' In Jail

LONDON —(U.P.)— A London prison farm fugitive's story of how he "hid" in the Madison county jail for three days caused the ears of some law enforcement officers to turn red today.

The fugitive, Stewart Bennedum, 38, of Dayton, who escaped from the prison farm last Friday with five other convicts who slugged a guard, was recaptured by police in Columbus last night.

Madison county officers seized Bennedum and then released him while sheriff's deputies all over central Ohio were looking for him, and the state bureau of identification at the prison farm checked the fugitive's fingerprints while he was in jail and failed to identify him.

The prisoner sentenced to 1 to 15 years for burglary, was picked up by Sheriff Gorman F. Clark and Deputy Earl Lamb Saturday morning.

Bennedum was released Monday and hitch-hiked to Columbus, where police seized him on a street after being summoned by a woman whose suspicions were aroused.

Deputy Lamb said Bennedum's fingerprints were checked by a prisoner in the bureau of identification. Supt. T. C. Jenkins of the prison farm, who explained that the bureau is not under his jurisdiction, said he intended to inquire into why the prisoner failed to identify Bennedum's finger prints.

FALL DOWN SHAFT FATAL

TOLEDO —(AP)— Edward M. Mansfield, 78, died last night of injuries suffered yesterday when he fell 18 feet down an elevator shaft.

Broadens Inquiry Into Kentucky Primary

Up and Down THE STREET

Recollections of Mansfield, and of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Maxwell and Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Williams, enter into an article in the August issue of Christian Herald, written by Richard Maxwell, one of Mansfield's gifts to the radio, who now has a morning spot on the Columbia network with his Songs of Cheer and Comfort. Entitled "Heritage," the article also makes intimate reference to his parents and uncles.

Things looked bad yesterday for Bobby Woerth, 12, of 496 South Diamond street, and B-31, his entrant in today's News-Journal Soap Box Derby. After testing his car for speed before checking it at headquarters yesterday, Bobby's speedster broke loose from a tow car on a hill. And down went Bobby and the car in reverse, piling up against a curb. The jolt not only knocked the streamlined car out of shape, but wrecked it generally. But you'd never know it after Bobby completed his repair job. He was set to "go to town" today.

There's a lot of grief in store for a two-and-a-half year old vacationist when she returns from a visit with her grandparents at Willard. Yesterday her pup disappeared and at midnight her parents were still scouring the neighborhood for him. Shirley Ann Pittenger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pittenger, 362 West Third street, thinks no more of her bright blue eyes than she does of her black-and-white spotted terrier puppy. Spotty, as curious a pup as ever barked at the moon, either wandered away yesterday morning or some one coaxed him away. Anyone would recognize him by his name and the fact that he's tiny and answers to his name.

One advantage of being the chief executive of a city is that everyone—practically everyone knows your middle initial. Last night at the "Sales Mean Jobs" rally in Central park, Chairman Richard Fensch introduced the mayor as "Mayor Claude E. Hunter"—and on all sides you could hear a buzz of "that's not right—it's Claude M. Hunter." The average man's middle initial is usually known only to his mother and himself.

PROBE PRESSURE

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Secretary of State William J. Kennedy today sent an aide in his office, James A. Walkner, to Athens to investigate widespread charges of "vote getting pressure" upon old age pensioners in Athens county.

A complaint was made to Kennedy by David Johnson, chairman of the Athens board of election, that employes of the old age pension division and the state highway department were urging pensioners to apply for disabled voters' ballots.

Johnson said already approximately 60 applications had been filed for this type of ballot. The number was termed "unusually large."

CITY WILL BUY AIR COMPRESSOR

Council Authorizes Purchase of Equipment for Street Department.

Purchase of an air compressor to be used in the street department was authorized by city council last night.

The legislation provides for a supplemental appropriation of $2,000 from the unappropriated gasoline tax fund and authorizes Service Safety Director Tracy C. Styerti to enter into a contract for the purchase of a mobile unit not to exceed $2,000.

Councilman George C. Kyle said he was "thoroughly opposed" to the city going into the machine age along with industry. He cast the only vote against the measure.

"It appears to me that this is just another machine to replace labor—you know the position that labor is in today—and I am opposed to any such transaction," Kyle said.

The air compressor is to be used by the street department to cut paving and tamp backfill in trenches in order to speed up repair work. It is being purchased primarily for use on the Woodland water improvement where the pavement on Lexington avenue will have to be cut to make way for the construction of a new high capacity main that will serve the mercantile district.

ASSOCIATION GIVEN SOLE RIGHT TO LIBERTY PARK CONCESSIONS

The sole authority of operating concessions in Liberty park today was in the hands of the Liberty Park and Civic association.

An ordinance granting the association this authority was approved by city council last night by a vote of 6 to 2.

The measure provides that the association shall have the "sole privilege of maintaining and operating at locations within the park, stands, tents or other temporary fixtures in connection with the sale of food and refreshments."

It also permits the association to conduct any type of concession associated with an amusement park, including shows, dances and all types of entertainment and amusements exhibited for profit.

The measure met opposition from Councilman George C. Kyle and Arthur C. Croak on the basis that council should not set a precedent by allowing the city parks to be turned into amusement centers.

"The city parks were created for recreation and should be kept that way and not be turned into an amusement park," Kyle said.

Croak said he was of the opinion that the permit should not be granted because the scope of the type of concessions included in the measure was "too broad."

The legislation however, provides that all profits from the concessions shall be used solely and exclusively for the beautification and improvement of Liberty park under the supervision of the service director.

It also provides that the association shall keep a record of all receipts and disbursements for each concession and that the records shall be open to inspection by the city auditor and service director at any time.

ANNUAL FEAST

Watermelon Festival at Johns Park Set for Friday.

Friday night the Johns Park association will hold its 16th annual watermelon festival at the park, with a band concert and a ball game as added attracions.

Last year the profits were used to buy chairs, tables, dishes and silverware for community events. This year the funds will be spent to furnish an additional room in the park building for a community assembly hall, according to Harry Bowman, president.

A concert by the Senior High school band has been arranged by Robert Stevenson, general chairman of the festival, and a ball game between the Beeber-Ross and DeLuxe Cab teams is scheduled at 6:30 p. m. Besides watermelons, ice cream, sandwiches and soft drinks will be sold.

SENATE GROUP SENDS IN MORE INVESTIGATORS

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate campaign expenditures committee broadened its investigation of the Kentucky primary today and increased its staff of investigators. Conditions there, the committee charged, were such as to "imperil the right of the people to a free and unpolluted ballot."

Without mentioning names, the committee charged that the campaign forces of Senator Alben W. Barkley who is backed by President Roosevelt for the state's Democratic senatorial nomination, and his opponent, Gov. A. B. Chandler, were equally guilty of improper tactics.

Adds More Investigators.

Chairman Morris Sheppard (D-Tex) revealed that H. Ralph Burton, committee invesigtator, had employed "three or four" assistants to extend the investigation.

Sheppard said that the committee would be on hand for the primary balloting Saturday to watch for evidence of irregularities. Six other investigators will watch the Tennessee primary Thursday.

The committee said the Kentucky investigation would be pushed "in order that the full facts may be developed and presented to the senate for its consideration and action."

This indicated, some observers believe, that the committee considered the Kentucky campaign was such that the right of the victor to a seat in the senate would be challenged in that body.

'After hearing Burton's evidence, gathered over one-third of the state, the committee said it was "certain that organized efforts have been and are being made to control the vote of those on relief work, and that contributions have been sought and obtained from federal employes, in behalf of one of the senatorial candidates."

Chandler forces charged that Barkley's backers had sought the help of federal office holders, and asserted that the WPA was working openly for the senator.

Barkley's group accused the Chandler organization of causing the state old-age pension and unemployment insurance organizations to distribute payments in a manner calculated to aid Chandler.

FAIR ENOUGH!

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW CANAAN, Conn.—An editorial crisis has been happily weathered by the Connecticut Nutmeg, the roguish weekly published by a little group of serious thinkers up here away from it all, of which Heywood Broun, the president of the Newspaper CIO union, is one of the contributing proprietors.

Gene Tunney, another of the contributing proprietors, composed an article for the issue of July 28, with intent to disparage the courage of his neighbor, Congressman Alfred Norton Phillips of Stamford.

Mr. Phillips, though a New Dealer by political profession, is an economic royalist, being an heir to a fortune amassed in the manufacture of a famous household remedy.

In congress he has been given credit for a determined, single-handed and, as yet, unsuccessful struggle to abolish the reptile houses of all the American zoological gardens, lest there come some time an earthquake to shake apart their cages and loose upon the land hundreds, or anyway, dozens, of venomous serpents.

It is a dreadful possibility which had never occurred to any other statesman, although there are several retreats, in the leafy hills hard by Congressman Phillips' home town, in which learned physicians carry on a ceaseless but not exactly selfish warfare against the reptiles which infest the hallucinations of noted scions and sciones who have overdrammed.

On a recent occasion, Congressman Phillips took a sock at the chin of Harold Skidd, a junior politician of the district. By Mr. Tunney's account, he missed and Skidd then bounced his one-two off the congressman's chin and swooned him in the arms of friends.

* * *

Mr. Tunney still further reported that on a previous occasion Congressman Phillips threw a punch at a man 30 years older than himself, missed, caught a right in return and fled, shouting: "A horse, a horse; my kingdom for a horse!"

Although the Connecticut Nutmeg has now rolled 11 issues, and was acclaimed as a paper in which thinkers of strong opinions would hit straight from the shoulder, as the Rotarians say, Mr. Tunney's article on the local congressman, rather oddly, was the first essay that might not have been published in the Washington Star without offense to the editorial policy of that friendly journal. Mr. Broun has been writing nature notes and puns.

* * *

But when Mr. Tunney fearlessly denounced Congressman Phillips, George Bye, the sort of editor, changed two words in the tail paragraph of his copy, strife broke out in the happy family of suburban editors.

He caused Mr. Tunney to say that Congressman Phillips enjoyed a fight, whereas he had intended to say the reverse, and Gene's humiliation was exceeded only by his wrath at Mr. Bye, of whom he demanded a written apology.

* * *

Beneath the surface of things up here, away from it all, it is more than half suspected that Neighbor Broun hankers for Mr. Phillips' seat in congress and that Mr. Tunney approves of his desire.

Mr. Broun has cultivated a William Jennings Bryan coiffure and a platform manner and Mr. Tunney has developed a truly remarkable political influence in the countryside. There are many Irish names among the roster of the leaders, and it is by no means fantastic to imagine that Mr. Tunney, skipping the lower house, may one day adorn the United States senate.

* * *

Mr. Broun cannot have Congressman Phillips' seat this year, being CIO in an A. F. of L. town, a Socialist and not a Democrat, and too new to the region to qualify with the organization. But two years from now, with Mr. Tunney's aid, Mr. Broun might receive that which he sometimes calls a mandate.

Mr. Bye has given Mr. Tunney his written apology, so The Nutmeg crisis is over now. They hired a reporter last week who is not a member of the Newspaper Guild, and The Connecticut Nutmeg's paid editorial staff is 100 per cent non-union. Life is real up here, away from it all.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

(Jo Swerling, the author, now writing Selznick-International's "Made for Each Other," today taps out an essay for Columnist Robbin Coons, who is on vacation.)

By JO SWERLING

HOLLYWOOD—Hospital records of the motion picture colony discloses the awful fact that the majority of nervous breakdowns occurs among the gentry whose function it is to provide the scripts.

There are many reasons for this, but the main cause is the Hays office. The common nightmare of writers is a hideous dream in which they run a gantlet between two lines of malevolent censors who beat them with clubs labeled: Can't! — Mustn't! — Censorable! —Barred!—Violation of the code! —Against public policy!—Offensive! — Objectionable! — Politically unsound! — Cut! — Eliminate!—Taboo!

Taboo! Taboo! Taboo! That's the principal reason for a great deal of the lousy product that comes out of Hollywood. (What a joy to be able to use the word "lousy" without fear of red pencil!)

Right from the start, when the idea for a story is germinated, the writer is faced with an infinity of prohibitions—the "don'ts" are endless, fantastic. It has come to a point now where only a picture like "Snow White" has a chance to pass, unscarred, through the censors boards. And even Mr. Disney's innocuous masterpiece had trouble in England.

* * *

The list of censor cuts in any year of production in Hollywood prove conclusively there is practically nothing you can say in a picture any more that won't offend somebody and hence must be eliminated.

The picture of the future, if the present gagging continues, will simply have to be written without a heavy. If the villain happens to be a German, there is a Nazi roar of rage and threats of dire reprisal from Berlin which sends the producer scurrying frantically to their cutting rooms to adjust matters. If the heavy is an Italian the scream of anger comes from Rome, with like results. You mustn't have an unpleasant character who is South American, Mexican, Chinese or Japanese, English, French or what have you. It used to be that you could make your villain a communist but the left wing hovers over Hollywood also and you mustn't. A Yankee is out of the question. You might take a chance on an Eskimo. But who ever heard of an Eskimo heavy?

* * *

You've got to lay off politics altogether. No race problems. Miscegenation is out. Nix on war. Steer away from social conditions. Eschew the class conflict. Soft pedal on sex. Avoid religion. In short, lay off of life. It's censorable.

The producing talent is here. There are technical experts whose knowledge is awe inspiring, splendid actors and actresses, able and competent writers, talent galore in every department—everything, in short, to turn out great pictures.

But you mustn't. It's all right in books, in magazines, in the newspapers, on the lecture platforms, even on the radio but not in the movies. The greatest blight on the greatest of all the contemporary arts is censorship. No great strides will ever be made until the creative forces unite to defeat their worst foe—the censor boards.

If this be treason, sue me.

WHAT PRICE PETTING?

What Causes Parental Uneasiness?

This is another in the series of articles on petting being presented on The News-Journal Woman's Page by the famous authority on problems of love and marriage, Beatrice Fairfax. In these articles Miss Fairfax tells the whys and wherefores of modern youth's "psychological revolution" in regard to petting, and discusses the fundamental dangers of petting along with the attitudes of both the old and young.

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority On Problems Of Love And Marriage.

Why are parents uneasy about the petting that they know boys and girls indulge in?

They will tell you simply. It's "playing with fire," they will say.

But how were these same youngsters taught the nature of actual fire? Not by making a bogey of it, surely! Not by telling them that never in their lives must they touch a box of matches

No, but by patiently explaining to them how fire starts, how it's controlled and how, if it flares too high, you put it out At the same time, if you were far-sighted parents, you saw to it that your children developed enough common sense and had enough practical experience so that they wouldn't carelessly set themselves and their playmates ablaze. After that, you trusted them

We can't nowadays, keep youngsters in ignorance of the fact that human nature is an inflammable sort of thing On the contrary, the more clearly they understand this, the better Nor can we keep boys and girls apart Our democratic principles and our public school system prevent this In fact, most of us have no wish to keep them apart

So what are parents to do? Spend their lives agonizing over catastrophes that they fear may happen? Or see to it that their boys and girls have a proper education?

I don't mean an education in sex knowledge alone though we all know that is essential But training in honesty, fairness, consideration and good sense—the very qualities that make good wives and husbands, later on and that now, before there's any thought of marriage, should prevent these young creatures from breaking each others' hearts or damaging each others' lives

Parents who have "done their duty by" their youngsters, as the phrase used to run, don't need to have a nervous collapse every time they hear that a few boys and girls have kissed each other

Some people believe that we are shedding convortions too rapidly But I am greatly pleased to see that young people are so delightfully natural in their approach to each other In the old days, if a boy and girl held hands in public, or even so much as smiled at each other, their smirking elders were all for pairing them off for life Now we pay no attention, which is a good deal saner.

But suppose the same Jack and Jill who carelessly held hands in the afternoon are found petting each other in the evening If they are sweet wholesome youngsters who as I have suggested, have been sensibly brought up, we may take it for granted they are merely expressing the perennial attraction of youth for youth And who can blame them for that?

Jill is pretty, perhaps, and feminine, with soft, kittenish ways Jack may be a sturdy, good-looking boy with a gift for leadership. Why shouldn't they admire each other? Why shouldn't they even feel an urge to express affection?

And if they are the Jack and Jill we think they are, they are not upsetting each others lives in exchanging a kiss or two The kiss may even help them to find out that it's only a pleasant friendliness they feel for each other Love? Oh not by any means Jill is a dear who would fit in very nicely as a cousin Jack is a good sort but perhaps just a bit too much of a manager

And so each of them, serene and contented, continues the not wholly conscious search for the Love that will some day transfigure their lives and that has so little to do, after all, with a mere moment's petting.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ASKING FOR NO TRUMP

IF YOUR partner bids a suit you respond with another suit and he then calls still another one he is very likely to be asking you to bid no trump if you can But only if you can He does not want you to do it probably, unless you have the one remaining suit in good enough shape to stop it if the opponents lead it In this situation, your call to no trump would not be a denial of additional strength in the usual sense but a positive showing of some kind of strength in the unnamed suit.

South got a dismal result for his side on this deal by thinking that a minimum number of no trump bid at any time is a discouraging bid North started the action with the correct bid of 1-Diamond, which South answered with 2-Clubs Since they were playing a one-over-one style of bidding North "reversed" with two spades

Now comes South's chance to go right or wrong He did the latter by calling 2-No Trumps, which North carried to three After the defenders ran five heart tricks, North explained that one of the principal purposes of the spade bid was to let South know the side had three suits in shape and that if South could stop the hearts he could bid no trump South explained that he was merely trying by his no trump call to show his lack of adequate support for either of North's suits

Of course the best way to do that was by a rebid of 3-Clubs which would have been safer than raising the diamonds since that might have been one of those overdone short-suit calls as an opener Had South rebid clubs, the side could not have missed reaching six in one minor or the other.

Chowder Fine Dish on Warm Days

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

A HEARTY one-meal soup and a salad often make a nice warm-weather luncheon or supper. Here are some grand recipes, economical and good, using crackers, whole or crumbled, as ingredients

A vegetable chowder is especially nice, and good for the youngsters, too. Everyone has a recipe for clam chowder This is one of our favorites since it isn't at all involved or difficult Ingredients include two cups boiling water, one and one-half cups oysterette crackers, two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon minced onion, teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper one cup clam juice, one cup minced clams and two cups scalded milk.

Pour boiling water over the crackers Heat butter in deep saucepan and brown onion in it Add seasoning, crackers, clam juice and clams, and bring to a boil Cook 10 minutes Add hot milk stir and serve It makes six portions and takes only 12 minutes to prepare

And here's a good recipe for fish chowder, a nice Friday dish It requires one quart boiling water, one cup flaked, cooked fish two tablespoons butter, one can condensed tomato soup, one onion (minced), two teaspoons salt, 17 flake crackers (crumbled), one large can evaporated milk and two tablespoons parsley, chopped. Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I got the answer I expected from the crouching murderer outlined against the open trap door to the farmhouse roof.

It was the ping of a bullet sent in the direction of the spot to which I had thrown my voice ventriloquist fashion Then I saw him coming stealthily down the stairs and realized that instead of the killer fleeing for his life through the orchard after his attack upon Queen Olga he had doubled upon his pursuers and was planning to take refuge in the farmhouse attic from which he could pursue his deadly purpose unsuspected

Measuredly I spoke again apparently from the same spot as before.

You missed that time and you will miss again," I told him, "but I shall not miss. Do as you're told, throw down that pistol and hold your hands high above your head before I fire"

But he did not obey me Insteady, he said almost wonderingly.

"A vomans' Vot you do here, hein?"

I saw that he had the contempt of woman's ability for anything except "kinder, kirsch, und kutchen" which is held by so many aliens and that he simply could not visualize the possibility of a woman's aim being any good whatever.

"Never mind what I am doing here," I said. You evidently do not believe I can hit you. Suppose you let me give you a proof Hold your hat above your head and I will fire a bullet into it"

I remembered too late that if I did as I had promised he would know my position and would be able to fire more correctly than he had done But he either did not understand my proposal, or did not intend to agree to it

"Vot foolishness!" he said, and I wondered at the mentality of a man who could thus display such irresolution when so much was at stake

There was only one thing to do, and that was to sit quietly where I was until the man made up his mind what he was going to do next

Trying To Find Her.

That it soon appeared, was absolutely nothing He settled upon the step as if he never meant to leave it, and leaned forward, peering into the darkness hoping I know that his eyes might eventually pierce the Stygian blackness and find my lurking place

If he finally succeeded, I knew that my life would not be worth the proverbial picayune The prospect was not a pleasant one, and to my horror I found myself dallying with the thought of what a wonderful target he presented, and how easy it would be for me to remove him permanently from the world's arena, or at least to put him hors de combat.

From the orchard outside I could hear two of the troopers returning to the house, cursing volubly at the escape of their quarry

'He must have got clear away, the devil" one of the said, and the man above me chuckled

"Dot is vot dey tink' he said, 'but I smart man I fool dem."

The next instant he had sprung up from his crouching position and was standing poised, alert. He had heard, I guessed, what I had the sound of running footsteps along the corridor below.

The footsteps did not stop at the foot of the attic stairs, but came on up them, while Dicky's voice sounded anxiously.

"Madge, Madge! Where are you?'

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up" Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Feet In Limelight, Need Care

By MME QUI VIVE

"Corns are the battle scares of vanity," remarked Dr Irving M. Sward at the 30th annual convention of chiropodists, held in Chicago not long ago Let every beauty-quester paste that epigram on her mirror Let her keep it in mind when she goes shoe-hunting Corns hurt like sin They are caused by the pressure of ill-fitting shoes and by nothing else It a woman insists upon having her shoes too full of feet she'll have pedal troubles

Dr Sward takes a mean lick at spiked heels He says they contract the toes impair the vitality of ligaments, cause spinal troubles produce headaches, backaches wrinkles and grouches Everybody knows they make ankles larger than they should be. But some women will go right on wearing them In it silly? Yea, and stupid Why make oneself miserable? Spiked heels are not pretty or graceful Shoe manufacturers make them because women demand them They offer sensible, scientifically designed shoes that are smart the majority of women won't even look at them Well heigho, as the seven dwarfs sing it

With sandals evaporating to nothing more than a few straps, feet should be in form Yassum, and toenails must be kept pretty, tinted with glitter They show through chiffon hosiery and toeless sandals

For shopping the boulevard heel is recommended Wear that and you can indulge in your spikes at the evening festivities To trot around on stilts day and night is the limit of folly If you do it you will suffer from chronic fatigue, because the unnatural position of the feet cause a strain on the ligaments of the legs the spinal column and the poor little toes which bear too much of the body weight With such a condition of tension the central nervous system starts to yowl and what happens to the sweet disposition need not be told.

When selecting shoes notice the soles They should be firm but of light weight, bending easily. The leather over the toes should be light weight calf or a yielding kid That's where pressure is harmful. Always there should be firm support of the waist of the foot.

If anything can make a woman's face more unattractive than hurty shoes, we don't know what it is. Or shoes that make walking an unbearable ordeal. When women learn to put their pedals in proper casings, there will be greater interest in outdoor life, which is essential to good looks, health, a cheerful mental state.

Seventy per cent of civilized women have deformed feet. They have corns, bunions, ingrowing nails or weakened arches, and there are even more troubles besides The majority of the ills would disappear if humanity went barefoot. All ills are not caused by the wrong shoes But whatever the cause, professional attention should be sought, advice heeded.

My Neighbor Says:

Lantanas are excellent plants for growing in the garden, although not hardy, and are an excellent addition to the winter window garden. When being grown indoors they like a warm, even temperature and good ventilation. If the atmosphere becomes rather dry the leaves are likely to drop off The plants like plenty of sunlight and good drainage, with some sand in the soil
